INTRODUCTION

WHEN Sir Aurel Stein, in the course of his inquiries regarding the track of Alexander the Great in his march to the Indus, visited the valley of Tōrwāl, he recorded the three folktales and the list of typical words and sentences that form the basis of the present work. These he very kindly placed at my disposal, and I found that the linguistic information to be gathered from them was so full and of such importance, that it was impossible to refrain from subjecting them to a minute investigation. The results of this are contained in the following pages.

Very little has hitherto been known about Tōrwālī, the language of Tōrwāl. Biddulph, in his Tribes of the Hindoo Koosh,<sup>1</sup> called it "Torwālāk", and devoted a page and a half to the main features of its grammar, and about twelve pages to a very useful vocabulary. In the Linguistic Survey of India,<sup>2</sup> I have given a somewhat fuller account of the grammar, based on materials supplied by the late Sir Harold Deane. In neither case was the information sufficient for giving a complete description of the language. The folktales provided by Sir Aurel Stein now enable me to deal with it in much greater detail, and my account, if not pretending to be complete, can at least claim to be full enough to enable us to classify the language, and to describe its main features with some accuracy.

Tōrwālī is one of a number of languages generally grouped together under the name of "Kōhistānī", as being spoken in the Panjkōrā, Swāt, and Indus Kōhistāns lying to the north of the Pēshāwar and Hazārā Districts of British India. Other members of the group are Gārwi, spoken in the Swāt Kōhistān above Tōrwālī, and Maiyā, spoken in the Mayō district of the Indus Kōhistān. Both of these are described in the Linguistic Survey,<sup>1</sup> and are Dardic forms of speech. They belong to the Dard group of that linguistic family, being more nearly connected with Šinā and the Indianized Kāśmīrī than with the Khōwār of Chitrāl spoken to their immediate north. The materials in the following pages show that Tōrwālī in this respect is in entire agreement with the other Kōhistānī languages and that, like them, it also shows traces of a relationship with the Kāfir languages closer than that between it and Khōwār. Indeed, if the account given in the second folktale is to be accepted, the Tōrwāl country itself was once inhabited by Kāfirs that were conquered by Tōrwāls coming from Badakhshān. Such a legend must, however, be treated with reserve, for the word "Kāfir" is very loosely employed in Dardistān, and may well mean "any one who is not a Moslem", instead of referring to the group of tribes in western Dardistān known by that name.

The claim that Tōrwāl tribes came from Badakhshān is of greater interest. Such traditions of national origin as exist in Dardistān all point to the Eranian country to its north and north-west as the original home of the Dards. The traditions of the Šinā tribes are confused, and do not help us, but the Nilamata, the legendary history of the closely related Kāśmīrī, which probably goes back to the sixth or seventh century A.D., states definitely<sup>2</sup> that Kashmīr in early times was invaded by tribes coming from "the Sand Ocean" to its north. So also, in Chitrāl, one of the largest tribes, the Ashimadek, claims to have come from Shighnān and Badakhshān, and Biddulph<sup>3</sup> puts their arrival as occurring in the beginning of the seventeenth century, a theory which is not inconsistent with the Tōrwāl account given in the second folktale. Lastly, as Dr. Morgenstierne<sup>4</sup> has shown, the Bašgalī, or Katī, Kāfirs, who inhabit the country to the west of Chitrāl, came to their present seat from Ktivi in northern Afghanistan some twelve generations ago. We thus see that every definite tradition of the Dards tells of migrations into Dardistān from the north or north-west in comparatively recent times ; but these can have been going on for unrecorded centuries, and the case of Yüdyā, an offshoot of Munjāni, now spoken in the Chitrāl country, shows that this Eranian infiltration is still going on at the present day.

On the other hand, south of Dardistān lie the plains of north-western India, in which Indo-Aryan languages are spoken. I have on previous occasions maintained that the Dardic languages cannot be classed as definitely Indo-Aryan, and, though my conclusions have been contested, I still see no reason for changing my opinion. At the same time I freely admit that from very early times there must have been infiltration of Indo-Aryan colonists into Dardistān.<sup>1</sup> This is borne out by linguistic evidence. The Indo-Aryan element in the Dardic languages is naturally most evident in the southern parts of Dardistān nearest India, and grows weaker as we go farther north into Chitrāl and Kāfiristān. It is in Kashmīr that the infiltration was strongest, and, through the influence of Kāśmīrī, its cognate Ṣinā, immediately to its north, shows more purely Indian traces than do the Khōwār of Chitrāl and the Kāfir dialects.<sup>2</sup> One of the most southern of these Dardic languages is Tōrwālī. As Sir Aurel Stein shows below, it is spoken in the Swāt Kōhistān, and we must expect it to show many signs of Indo-Aryan influence. This is the fact. In all its most typical features, it is a true Dardic language. Its speakers count in twenties, not in tens as in India ; the Old Present has become the Future, as in Eranian ; intervocalic occlusives are not necessarily <sup>1</sup> In the case of Kashmīr, this infiltration is recorded in the Nīlamata, and has been so strong that it would almost justify us in calling Kāśmīrī, although it has a Ṣinā basis, an Indo-Aryan language.

elided, there is frequent interchange of surds and sonants, sonant aspirates are disaspirated, consonants are epenthetically affected by a following palatal sound, conjunct consonants are simplified without lengthening a preceding short vowel, initial r always becomes ž, intervocalic r is always elided, and so on for other typical Dardic phonetic changes enumerated in § 7 below. On the other hand, we see Indo-Aryan influence in the fact that while Dardic languages preserve conjunct consonants containing a sibilant or r, Tōrwālī treats these as they are treated in India proper.<sup>1</sup> Here, I am stating facts only in the most general terms, and for details I must refer the reader to the pages of the present work that deal with phonetics, which are summed up on pp. 20 ff.

Tōrwālī is spoken in a mountainous country, where intercommunication is not easy, and which has been the scene of frequent intertribal conflicts. It is natural that it should change from valley to valley, and should exhibit many dialectic variations. It is therefore not surprising that the three accounts of the language—that of Biddulph, that of the Linguistic Survey, and that given in these pages—should not always be in agreement. We do not know what particular dialect was described by Biddulph, but Sir Aurel Stein's inquiries showed that the account given in the Linguistic Survey correctly represents the form of Tōrwālī spoken in Chihil-dara, while the present folktales are in the dialect of Braniāl, a village which may be looked upon as the capital of the tribe.

Sir Aurel Stein has kindly provided the map of the Tōrwāl country prefixed to this volume, and also the note on Tōrwāl and its people, that immediately follows this Introduction. For convenience of reference, I have divided this work into four parts. Part I consists of Sir Aurel Stein's Note; Part II deals with the language; Part III consists of the Folktales and Typical Sentences; and Part IV of the Vocabulary and its connected Indexes.

PART I

Note on Tōrwāl and its People

By SIR AUREL STEIN

Tōrwāl, where the Dardic tongue recorded in the stories dealt with by Sir George Grierson is spoken, comprises that alpine portion of the valley of the Swāt River which extends from Kalām down to the large village of Churrai. It was visited by me as the first European in April, 1926. A descriptive account of the observations then made by me on my passage through the main valley will be found in chapters xii, xiii of my personal narrative of that tour in the dominion of the Miāngul of Swāt.<sup>1</sup>

The name Tōrwāl applies in a more specific way to a collection of hamlets counting about 120 households, and situated near the mouth of a side valley that debouches towards the right bank of the Swāt River about 5 miles above Braniāt, the present chief place of Tōrwāl. The alpine tract for which the name Tōrwāl is commonly used, in a more extended sense, includes the narrow side valleys that descend to the above indicated portion of the Swāt River course from the high snowy ranges forming the watershed towards the Indus on the east and towards the Panjkōrā on the west.

The whole of Tōrwāl forms part of the extensive but very sparsely inhabited mountainous area usually designated as the Swāt Kōhistān which is drained by the headwaters of the Swāt River. The hill tribes inhabiting it from the high glacier-crowned range towards Chitrāl in the north down to the open river valley below Churrai in the south represent the remnant of that ancient Dardic-speaking race which before the Paṭhān conquest may be assumed to have formed the main stock also of the population throughout the great and fertile territory now known as Upper and Lower Swāt.

Owing to the facilities for defence which the narrow and, in places, very difficult defiles passed by the Swāt River on its course here present, Tōrwāl appears for a long time past to have constituted a separate tribal territory, independent alike from the Yūsufzai clans established throughout the Swāt valley to the south and the Kōhistānī communities of Kalām, Ushu, and Utrōt. This accounts for the survival there of a separate form of Dardic speech, distinct from the Gārwi spoken in the Utrōt valley and about Kalām. In physical features the types presented by the Tōrwālīs of whom I obtained anthropometrical data, during my visit in 1926, distinctly recalled those I had observed among Chitrālīs and Tangīrīs, fair hair and light-coloured eyes being frequent.

The political dependence of Tōrwāl from Upper Swāt dates only from the year 1922, when the Miāngul ruler of Swāt extended his sway over the territory, using the opportunity offered by the absence of the fighting force of Tōrwālīs whom a feud with their northern neighbours had drawn off at the time to Kalām. No close estimate of the population of Tōrwāl was obtainable, but it can scarcely exceed 2,000 households in all, including semi-nomadic Gujars and a few small settlements of Chitrālī immigrants in Chihil-dara, Gurunai, and higher up.

The closer relations now established with the Paṭhān population of the open Swāt valley below Churrai and the increasing trade intercourse under the Miāngul's beneficent rule are bound to lead to a steady spread of Paṣtō among the hill people. This will probably result in time in their becoming bilingual, as has been the case with several of the small communities of "Dardic" speech in the Indus Kōhistān.

The stories edited and translated by Sir George Grierson were taken down by me from the mouth of Muqadar, an intelligent inhabitant of Braniāl, occasionally acting as a reciter, with the help of my friend and old travel companion Rāja Shāh Ālam, nephew of Rāja Pakhtūnwālī, late ruler of Darēl and Tangīr.<sup>1</sup> I am indebted to this well-educated and capable scion of the Khushwakt family, now an exile, for much useful information.

PART II

The Language

PHONETICS

1. Sir Aurel Stein, in recording these folktales, most rightly refrained from any attempt at securing uniformity of spelling, but, within the limited time at his disposal, wrote down for each word as nearly as possible the sound that he heard in each particular case. In recording a language that has no standard, and that has not been previously reduced to writing, it is found that the actual pronunciation of each word varies each time that it is uttered, according to its collocation in the sentence or to the mood of the speaker. In this way we often find the same word recorded as pronounced in different ways at different times. This is chiefly noticeable in the case of vowels, in which there is in the folktales, as recorded, great inconsistency, not only in the marks of length allotted to them, but even in their timbres. Thus, the word aśū "was", is sometimes written āśū, and the agentive case of pō "a boy", is at one time written pōē, and at another, puē. In the following pages I shall therefore confine myself to discussing the phonetics of consonants, and shall offer only one or two remarks on the subject of vowels.

2. We have Aphesis of a in wā "down" (Av. Skt. ava), in wālī (< avapādita-) "brought", in wat (< avāpta-) "arrived", and in śū instead of aśū "was" (§ 155). We have Aphesis of ā in tanū "own" (< ātmanah), and yē (< āyātī) "comes". On the other hand, we have Prothesis, or Metathesis of ū in ūgū (< guru-) "heavy". In Kāśmīrī we find a Sanskrit ū regularly represented by ū̄, the pronunciation of which nearly resembles that of long ī, and which is represented by ی in the Persian character. Similarly, in Tōrwālī, we have cīś (? cīś) "the female breast" (< cūcīkā);

dhūmā "smoke" (< dhūma-); sī "the sun" (< sūrya-); and pin (? pīn) "the full moon" (< pūrṇa-).

3a. Turning to consonants, I begin with some general remarks. First of all, it must be noted that Biddulph, in his vocabulary, makes no distinction between cerebral and dental letters. This is no doubt due to the fact—more than once recorded by me—that the distinction in sound between these two classes of letters is not nearly so marked in Dardic as it is in Indian languages. Sounds that in India would be called cerebral are, in Dardic, merely alveolar.<sup>1</sup> Even natives of India, when recording Dardic words, are not always certain as to whether this sound is cerebral or dental. For this reason, we need not be surprised that so accurate an observer as Biddulph has failed to distinguish between these two groups of sounds. Sir Aurel Stein also informs me that, in the case of some Tōrwālī words, he has been doubtful whether a t or a d was cerebral or dental. It must therefore, in the case of words cited on the authority of Biddulph, be remembered that a t or a d may possibly be a t or a d, respectively.

3b. The peculiar Dardic cerebral sounds represented by ç, j, š, and ž, respectively, are no doubt heard in Tōrwālī, but their existence is not noted by Biddulph, nor had it been brought to the notice of Sir Aurel Stein when he recorded the specimens. They both, therefore recorded these sounds as ordinary c, j, š, and ž, respectively. That the c in such words as cā "three", or pūc "a son", is a palatalized cerebral is reasonably certain when we compare them with the Šīṇā çe "three", and puc "a son". In Šīṇā, an original kṣ is usually represented by ç. In Tōrwālī it, as well as š, is represented by š or c, as in buš "hunger" (< bubhukṣā); kac (< kakṣē) "near", and other words noted below (§ 5d).

<sup>1</sup> Cf. Dr. G. Morgenstierne's remarks on the so-called "cerebral", but really "alveolar", r of Kāfirī (Report on a Linguistic Mission to Afghanistan, p. 41). In Wai and Ashkund, not only does this alveolar r occur, but also, alongside of it, there is heard the true cerebral r of India.

Other Šinā words with these palatalized cerebrals are sūṇu "straight", and žigu or jigu "long". The corresponding words in Tōrwālī, as recorded are šūš (Biddulph) and jig (Stein).

3c. Another general fact must be borne in mind—that in Tōrwālī, as in other Dardic languages, the Prakrit custom of eliding an intervocalic single consonant does not necessarily obtain. Thus, we have the intervocalic t preserved in such past participles as sabāt (< sambhārīta-) "arranged" and others; in gīt (< gīta-) "singing"; pattang (so Bid., ? patang) (< paṭaṅga-) "a butterfly"; žit (< ṛīti) "brass"; šet (< śarat-) "autumn"; ned (< nada-) "a river", and so for other letters, as will be seen below. It is true that, as we shall also see, intervocalic consonants are sometimes elided, but in most cases they are retained. When so retained, they are liable to undergo other phonetic changes, such as the changing of surds to sonants, the change of d to l, of j to ž, and so on.

3d. The last remark leads us to one prominent peculiarity of Tōrwālī—that there is a very frequent, though not necessary,<sup>1</sup> interchange between surds and sonants. This is not confined to intervocalic consonants, though, naturally, the change of surd to sonant occurs most often in regard to such. With this must be considered another fact—that in Tōrwālī, as in other Dardic languages, with a very few exceptions, sonant consonants cannot be aspirated. Hence, when an aspirated surd (such, e.g., as th) is changed to a sonant, such a sonant is disaspirated, so that, e.g., the resultant of th, is d, not dh. The following are examples of the change of surds to sonants:—

-k- > -g-, in agāš (< ekādaśa) "eleven"; bōgul (< kapōla, through **pōkala*-) "the cheek"; biginūsa "to sell"; (< vikriṇīṭe); kāg (written kāgh by Bid.) (< kāka-) "a crow"; kugū (< kukkuṭa-) "a cock"; Sulaimānik, N.P., sing. ag. Sulaimānige; tāgat (Psht. tāqat) "strength"; nikūsa,

Past nigāt, "to emerge"; siḡa (Psht. sika) "lead"; sugā (< sukarā) "easy"; siḡal (< sikatā) "sand". Cf. the remarks on ke or ge, the suffix of the Dative in § 29.

-kh > -g-, see § 3e.

-c < -j-, in loj (< ruci-) "light"; šijū (< šuci-) "clean"; saj (< Pr. sacca-) "truth".

-t > -d (-r), in gud (? gud) (Psht. gut) "a corner"; lāt "a fight", Sing. Obl. lāda; luṭ or (Bid.) luḍ (? luḍ) "small", cf. Ksh. lōkaṭ.

-th > -d-, see § 3e.

t > d, in āded (Psht. ādat) "accustomed"; tē, the postposition of the Instrumental, > dē after a vowel or n (§ 24); kadak, "how much?", cf. Šinā of Ḍāh-Hanū katāk; pat "behind", but pata-ge or pade-ge "backwards"; šat or šad, Auxiliary Verb (§ 169); set or sed (< sahitē) "with"; šidal (< šitala-) "cold"; siḡpad (Psht. šifat) "praise"; tiḍ (< tikta > titta-) "bitter"; žet or jada "on".

th > d-, see § 3e.

p > b, in bariš (< pārśva-) "a side"; abōsa, Past āp (< √āp-) "to come"; tuḡbak (Psht. ṭōpak) "a rifle"; in √pōw- (< prāpayati), -p- has become -w-.

-s > -z, in es, Sing. Obl. of ē, this, but Sing. Loc. ez-ma; so tes, tez-ma (§ 96).

-š > -ž, in paš or paiž (> pašca-) "behind"; χuzā (Psht. χuš) "pleased"; laš, fem. laž, "bad"; māš, Sing. Nom. (before a vowel) māž (I, 2), Plur. Obl. māža "a man".

On the other hand, in some words a sonant becomes a surd, as in:—

g > k-, in kud (? kud) (Psht. guḍ) "lame".

g > -k-, in jik or jig (? jik, jig) (< ḍārgha-, through **drīga*-) "long".

-gh > -k (? -kh), in mek (? mekh) (< maigha-) "hail".

-d > -t-, in umēt (Psht. umēd) "hope"; yāt (Psht. yād) "remembrance".

-b > -p-, in ep (Psht. arḡb) "a fault".

-z > -s-, in awās (Psht. awāz) "a sound".

It will be observed that in Tōrwālī all these are final consonants.

3e. It is well known that Dardic languages possess no sonant aspirates. This is true, in the main, for Tōrwālī; but it does possess a few words, in which, probably for special causes, an original sonant aspirate has been retained. Such are :—

gh, in ghō “a horse”, borrowed from the Indian ghōṛā. The gh is evidently retained, in order to distinguish the word from gō “a bull”. Biddulph also gives kāgh “a crow”—a very doubtful word, unless he intends to represent kay, which is possible.

dh, in dhē “the belly”. A borrowed Indian word.

dh, in gadhō “an ass”. Here the dh is not original, but is a contraction of dah (Pr. gaddaha-); dhū “a daughter”. Here, also, the dh is a contraction of duh (Skt. duhitṛ) ; dhain (or Bid. daī) “running” (cf. Skt. dhāvana-). Biddulph also gives midhal “a ram”, the derivation of which is unknown to me.

bh, in bhā “a brother”. This word has been specially tested, and is certain. The reason for the retention of the aspiration is unknown to me. There is no bh in the other Dardic forms of the word.

The following are examples of the regular disaspiration of sonant aspirates, whether original or derived (as above explained, § 3d) from surd aspirates.

gh > g, in gā (< ghāsa-) “grass”; jig or jik (< ḍirgha-) “long”; √gin- (Lahndā √ghinn-) “take”; gan (< ghana-) “large”; langī (< √laṅgh-) “they crossed over”.

dh > d, in dīmū (< dhūma-) “smoke”.

kh > gh > g, in √lig- (< √likh-) “write”; but √lek- “count”.

th > dh > d (r, r), in bēdū (< upaviṣṭakah > uvaṭṭhaō) “seated”; √kuth- “beat”, but kudē-dū “he beats”; pērā (< pūthikā) “a generation”; pīd (< prṣṭha- > pīṭha-) “the back”.

th > dh > d, in thū (< sthitakah) “is”. But, between vowels, this becomes dū (§ 158).

3f. As regards other consonants, we may note two instances of Aphaeresis in pel (< pipīla) “an ant”, and buš (? buš) (< bubhukṣā “hunger”. We have a curious instance of Metathesis in bōgul “the cheek”. The hypothetical stages of development of this word are kapōla > **kabōla* > **bōkala* > **bōgala* > bōgul.

4. Turning now to single consonants, we have:—

-k- elided, in niō (< nikatē) “near”. But -k- is preserved in bōgul “above”. Cf. 3d for -k- > -g-.

-g- elided in chal (< chagatī) “a she-goat”. But cf. bōgul “above”.

gh- preserved in ghō “a horse”, see above, § 3e. But it generally becomes g, see above, § 3e.

-c > -ś, in ciś (< cūci-) “the breast of a woman” (§ 2). Cf. ś and c, below.

-c > -j. See above, § 3d.

-j optionally becomes -ž, in kujū or kužū “a dog”; biž (< bīja-) “seed”; pāji or paiž “after”; jada or žet “on”. But elsewhere initial j seems to be preserved, as in jīb (< jihvā) “tongue”; jang (< jaṅghā) “leg”. Cf. √jan- (√jñā-) “know”; √ji- (√jan-) “be born”. The ž is hardened to ś, in mūj or mūś “before”.

-t > -d > -r-, and is then treated exactly like r. See below.

dh- is preserved in dhē “the belly”. No other example. See § 3e.

-t is preserved in gūt (gūta-) “singing”; pattang (Bid. ? patang) (< patāṅga-) “a butterfly”; žit (< rīti-) “brass”; šet (< śarat-) “autumn”; ugāt (< udgāta-) “gone away”; sabāt (< sambhārīta-) “arranged”, and other past participles given in § 196.

t > d. See above, § 3d.

-t > -d > -l, in ūtal (? ūthal) (< utthita-), high (Bid.); balai (< vāta-), wind; śgal (< śikatā) “sand”; thalū (< sthāpitah) “placed”.

-t- elided in many past participles, such as gā (< gataḥ) and others in §§ 182 ff., 190 ff. So also in the 3rd sing. Future (Old Present), as in kuḍī (< kuṭṭayati), he will beat. In other past participles, the -t- is retained (see § 196).

-th > c, in feminines, by epenthesis due to an original palatal vowel or semi-vowel following. See § 48, and compare the corresponding change in Kāśmīrī.

-d- retained in ned (< nada-) "a river".

-d- elided, in agāś (< ēkādaśa) "eleven"; paī (< pāda-) "a foot"; hū (< hṛd-) "the heart".

-d > -l, in talā (< tadā) "then"; √til- (< √tīd-) "go". According to Rāma Tarkavāgīśa's Prākṛta-Kalpataru, II, iii, 25, the same change occurs in Ābhīrikā Prakrit.

-d > -l > -ž, in feminines, by epenthesis due to an original palatal vowel or semivowel following. See § 48, and compare the corresponding change in Kāśmīrī.

d- > ḍ-, in ḍit (< ḍṛṣṭā) "seen". This is a solitary case, and the reason is obvious. So Ksh. has ḍiṭh.

dh preserved. See above (§ 3e).

-dh- elided in √bū- (< bōdhati) "see".

-dh- > -h-, in lehir (< rudhirā) "red".

-n- elided in māś (< manuṣya-) "a man". This is the only case noted.

-p-, is elided in kūi (< kūpikā) "a well"; thalū (< sthāpītaḥ) "placed".

p becomes vocalized (through v) in ū (< āp-) "water".

-f- > -p-, in kufār or kupār "a Kāfir".

bh preserved. See above (§ 3e).

bh > h-, in √hō- (< √bhū-), "become".

-m- remains unchanged in nām (< nāma) (Ts.) "a name"; but Ksh. nāv. Cf. -v- > -m-, below.

y- remains unchanged, as in yo (< yavaḥ) "barley"; yē (< āyāti) "he will come".

-aya- > -e- in śen (< śayana-) "a bedstead".

r- > l-, in lāt (< √rat-) "a fight"; lehir (< rudhirā) "red"; loj (< ruci-) "light".

$-r$  is always elided, as in ūgū (< guru-) "heavy"; umu (Psht. umr) "age"; angā (< aṅgāra-) "fire"; āngī (< aṅgū-) "a finger";  $\sqrt{ka}$ - (<  $\sqrt{kr}$ -) "do"; kerā (< kar-tari- > *\*kaḍari*-) "a knife"; kū (< krūra-) "hard"; cai (Šiṇā char) "a cliff"; cau (Šiṇā cār) "four";  $\sqrt{ciā}$ - (< cārayati) "graze"; cū (< chūrikā) "a dagger"; cimu (Bur. comar) "iron"; huša (Psht. hušyār) "intelligent"; hwa (Psht. ḡwār) "destitute"; Jebēr, "N. of a place", Obl. Sing. Jebēya; jagō (Psht. jigar) "liver"; tiā (Psht. taiyār) "ready"; Tōwāl, Tōrwāl; dū (< dūra-) "far";  $\sqrt{pai}$ - (< prērayati) "send"; pō (Munjānī pūr) "a boy"; pay(im) (< parē) "across" (cf. Ksh. pārīm);  $\sqrt{mā}$ - (< mārayati) "kill"; maiṃyūsa (< mṛ-) "to die"; šā (< śiraḥ) "head"; šet (< śarat) "autumn"; sabāt (< sambhārīta-) "arranged"; sugā (< sukarā) "easy".

$-r$  ( $-ḍ$ ) and  $-rh$  ( $-ḍh$ ) are elided, exactly following  $-r$ . Thus, ašay (Psht. ašārai) "an apricot"; kugū (< kukkuta- > **kukūḍa*-) "a cock"; kol (< kuṭīla- > **kuḍīla*-) "crooked"; ghō (Hindī ghōṛā) "a horse", dō (< dāḍhikā) "the beard"; niō (< nikatē > **niarē*) "near"; šeš (< ṣōḍaśa) "sixteen".

$-t > -ḍ > -r$  (?  $-r$ ), in  $\sqrt{por}$ - (< sphōṭayati) "break" (trans.);  $\sqrt{pūr}$ - (< sphutati) "break" (intrans.). Both these words come from Biddulph, who does not distinguish between r and ṛ. We should probably read por- and pur-.

$v > b$ , in balai (< vāta-) "wind";  $\sqrt{ban}$ - (< varṇayati) "say"; basān (< vasanta-) "spring"; so  $-v$ , in  $\sqrt{āb}$ - (Pr. āvai) "come".

ava > ō, in ōś (< avaśyāya-) "ice"; yo (< yavaḥ) "barley".

-v- > -m-, in nam (< nava-) "new"; nōm (< nava) "nine".

Cf. -m- and ava > ō above.

ś and c are interchangeable, as in paśin or pacin "a bird"; so √cuḥ- (< śudhyatē) "learn". Cf. -c > -ś, above.

ś- > ś-, in śā (< śiraḥ) "the head"; śidal (< śītala-) "cold".

-ś- > -ś-, in daś (< daśa) "ten"; diś (< diś-) "direction"; dvāś (< dvādaśa) "twelve", and so other similar numerals.

-ś- > -h- or elided, in b'hēṭh or bēṭh (< upaviṣṭa-) "seated".

ṣ > ś (? ś), in śō (? śō) (< ṣaṣ-) "six"; tiś (? tiś) (< trṣā) "thirst"; mūś (? mūś) (< mūṣaka-) "a mouse"; śeś (? śeś) (< śōdaśa) "sixteen".

-s- is preserved in √has- (< has-) "laugh".

-s- is elided in śū (< svasā) "a sister"; gā (< ghāsa-) "grass". Cf. -sy > -s > elided in § 5d.

s > h, in hut (< supta-) "slept"; māh (< māsa) "a month".

-h- is elided in b'hēṭh or bēṭh "seated"; set or sed (< sahitē > Ksh. sūt) "with".

5a. As regards conjunct consonants, we can consider them under the following heads:—

A. Conjuncts of Class Consonants.—As in Prakrit and Apabhraṃśa, the first consonant of the conjunct is usually dropped; but, as in other Dardic languages, the remaining consonant is not doubled. Thus:—

-kt > -t > -d, in žed (< rakta-) "blood"; tid (< tikta-) "bitter".

-cch > -ch > -ś, in tuś (< tuccha) "empty"; piśul (< picchala-) "smooth".

-tt > -th, in √kuṭh- (< √kutt-) "beat".

-tth > -th > -d, in pīḍ (Pr. pittha-) "the back".

-dd > -d > -r (? r), in har (? har) (< hadda-) "a bone" (Bid.).

-tt > -t, in dīt (< datta-) "given".

tth > -t (? -th), in ūtal (? ūthal) (< utthita-) “high” (Bid.).

dg > -g, in ugāt (< udgāta-) “arose”.

-pt > -t, in ucit (< utksipta-) “arose”; wat (< avāpta-) “arrived”; sat (< sapta-) “seven”; hut (< supta-) “slept”.

5b. B. Nasal Conjuncts.—(a) If the Nasal precedes:—

-ṅk > -ng, in tongū (? ṭongū) (< ṭaṅkakah) “a pear” (Bid.).

-ṅgh > ~~eng~~, in jang (< jaṅghā) “the leg”.

-ñc > -nj, in pañj (< pañca) “five”.

-ṇd > -n, in ān (< aṇḍa-) “an egg”; tunōl (< tanḍula-) “rice”; dan (< daṇḍa-) “a handle”; (ṣon < raṇḍa-) “a widower”.

-nt > -n, in dan (< danta-) “a tooth”; basān (< vasanta-) “spring”; himān (< himanta-) “winter”.

-nth > -nd or -n, in √gan- (< √granth-) “bind”; pand or pan (< panth-) “a road”.

-ndh > -n, in an (< andha-) “blind”; kan (< skandha-) “the shoulder”.

(b) If the Nasal follows:—

-gn > -g, in lagū (< lagnakah) “he went near”.

-tsn > nh > n, in yun (< jyōtsnā, Pr. joṇhā) “the moon”.

-pn > n, in ṣen (< svapna-) “a dream”.

-tm > t, in tanū (< ātman-) “own”. Cf. Ksh. tān°.

-tm > p, -b in pāē “he”, and āban “self”; both < ātman-.

See §§ 129, 138.

5c. C. Semi-vowel Conjuncts. (a) If the semi-vowel is y:—

jy- > y-, in yun (< jyōtsnā) “the moon”.

-ty > -t > -d > -r (? -r), in nār (? nār) (< nātya-) “dancing” (Bid.).

-dy > -r (? -r), in kur (? kur) (< kudya-) “a wall”.

-dy > -j, in aj (< adya) “to-day”.

-dhy- > -j, in √buj- (< budhyatē) “hear”; √cu- (< śudhyatē) “learn”.

(b) If the semi-vowel is r. (1) If the r precedes:—

-rṇ > -n, in kan (< karna) “the ear”; pin (< pūrṇa-) “the full moon”.

-rt > -r, in kera (< kartari-) "a knife". Here the second r has been elided. See above (§ 4).

-rth > -th, -t, -d, in sāth, sāt, or (before m) sād (< sārtha-) "with".

-rdabh > dh, in gadhō (< gardadhaḥ) "an ass" (§ 3e).

-rdr > -ž (? -ž), in ōž (? ōž) (< ardra-) "mud" (Bid.).

-rdh > -r, in ar (< ardha-) "half".

-rm > -m, in kam (< karma "work"; cam (< carma) "skin".

-ry > -r > elided, in sī (< sūrya- > **sīre*- > sī) "the sun" (§ 2).

-rv > -r > elided, in de (< darvī > **darī* > de) "a spoon".

-ršt > t, d, in pat or pad (< Av. paršti-) "behind".

(2) If the r follows :—

kr-, -kr > k, in kū (< krūra-) "hard"; cuk (< cukra-) "acid".

-kr > š (? š), in ceš (? ceš) (< cakra-) "a circle" (Bid.).

gr- > g-, in √gan- (> √granth-) "bind"; gām (< grāma-) "a village".

tr- > c- (? c-), in cā (? çā) (< tri- "three"; ceš (? ceš) (< trayōdaśa) "thirteen" (Bid.).

tr- > tl- (? tl-), in tlūi (? tlūi) (< trīya-) "third" (Bid.). Cf. G. pult, P. puhlē (< putra-) "a son".

-tr > -t, in kēt (< kutra) "where ?"; žāt (< ratri-) "night". This is the ordinary Prakrit change.

-ttr > -t, in pet (< pattra-) "a feather". This also is the Prakrit change.

-tr > -c (? -c), in pūc (? pūc) (< putra-) "a son". This is the Dardic change.

dr- > d-, in daš (? daš) (< drākṣā) "a grape". This is the Prakrit change.

dr- > j- (? ž-), in žīg (? žīg) (< dīrgha- > **drīga*-) "long". This is the Dardic change.

-dr > -n, in nīn (< nīdrā > **niddā* > **nīndā*) "sleep". This is a common Indian change.

pr- > p-, in  $\sqrt{p\bar{o}w}$ - (< prāpayati) “receive”;  $\sqrt{pai}$ - (< prērayati) “send”.

bhr- > bh-, in bhā (< bhrātā). See § 3e, above.

vr- > b-, in  $\sqrt{baj}$ - (<  $\sqrt{vraj}$ -), “go”.

(c) If the semi-vowel is v :—

-jv > -j, in ūjal (< ujjvala-) “white”.

-tv > -d, in bud (< bahutva-) “many”.

dv- > d-, in der (< dvar-) “a door”.

dv- > b- and du-, in bī (< dviṭiya-) “again”; duyi (< dviṭiya-) “second”.

-hv > -b, in jīb (< jihvā) “the tongue”.

(d) If the semi-vowel is l :—

-ld > -l, in gal (< galda-) “abuse”.

5d. D. Sibilant Conjuncts.

-śc > -š, -ž, in paš or paiž (< paśca-) “after” (§ 3d).

-śy > -š, in  $\sqrt{paś}$ - (< paśyati) “see”.

śv, šv > s. See Article sā in Vocabulary.

-šk > -kh > -g, in šug(īl) (< śuška- > **sukha*- > suga-), “dry”; nigālī (< niškālayati) “he will extract”.

-st > -t, in dit (< drṣtā) “seen”.

-st > -d (? -ḍ) in miḍ (? miḍ) (< miṣṭa) “sweet”.

-ṣṇ > -ṣun, in kiṣun (< kṛṣṇa-) “black”.

-sp (? -ṣy) > -š, in paśū (< puṣpa- or puṣya-) “a flower”.

kṣ > š (? ṣ) or c (? ç), in daš (? daṣ) (< drākṣā) “a grape” (Bid.); buš (? buṣ) (< bubhuksā) “hunger” (Bid.); pačin (Bid.) (? paçin) or pašin (? pašin) (< pakṣin-) “a bird”; achī (? açī) (< akṣi-) “the eye”; kac (? kaç) (< kakṣē) “near”; cūī (? çūī) (< kṣīra-) “milk”.

-tkṣ > -c, in ucit (< utkṣipta-) “arose”.

-kṣṇ > -n, in tīn (< tīkṣṇa-) “sharp”.

-kṣm > -m, in pām (< pakṣman-) “wool”.

sk- > k-, in kan (< skandha-), “the shoulder”.

-st > -t, in nāt (< nasta-) “the nose”; hat (< hastā-) “the hand”.

-st > -s, in ḍōs (Psht. dōst) “a friend”. This is a borrowed word.

str- > c- (? ç-) in cī (? çī) (< strī) "a woman". Cf. Sh. cāi, çāi.

sth- > th-, in thalū (< sthāpitaḥ) "placed"; thū (< sthitakah) "is".

sph- > p-, in √pūr- (< sphutati) "break" (intrans.); √por- (< sphōṭayati) "break" (trans.).

-sm > -zm, in āzmān (Psht. āsmān) "heaven". A deformation of a borrowed word. Cf. es, sing. obl. of ē "this", sing. loc. ez-ma.

-sy > -s > elided, in aī (< āsyā-) "the mouth". Cf. Ksh. āś<sup>u</sup>, and (§ 4) -s- elided sv- > s-, in sen (< svapna-) "a dream".

sv- > śu-, in śū (< svasā) "a sister". This change of s to ś seems to be abnormal. In sā < śvāsa-, there is a reverse change. See Article sā in the Vocabulary.

-ms > -s, in mās (< māmsa-) "meat".

6. Summary.—It will have been observed that, while many of the above phonetic changes are the same as those found in Indian Prakrits, many are of a quite different character, and are peculiar to Tōrwālī and other Dardic languages. It is natural that in Dardic, even if we suppose it to be not of Indian origin, some of its phonetic changes should be the same as those that have occurred in India, and also in other Indo-European languages, such as, for instance, the Romance forms of speech. But there are other cases in which a sound follows Indian analogies in one word, and Dardic analogies in another. For example, tr in rātri- "night", becomes t in the Tōrwālī žāt. Here we have an Indian change. On the other hand, when the tr in putra- "a son", becomes c (or ç) in Tōrwālī pūc (pūç), we recognize a Dardic change, unlike anything found in India. Tōrwālī is one of the most southern of the Dardic languages, and lies close to the Indian border. Such facts show that in it there has been a certain admixture of Indian elements, and I here give a list of those sound-changes which seem to me to be non-Indian, and to be purely Dardic. I pay no attention to those cases in which Dardic and Indian developments coincide, as it is usually impossible to say whether they are independent Dardic forms or are due to borrowing.

7. We must first note such general peculiarities as (1) the alveolar pronunciation of sounds that in India would be cerebral, (2) the fact that intervocalic single occlusives are not necessarily elided,<sup>1</sup> (3) the frequent interchange of surds and sonants,<sup>2</sup> (4) the disaspiration of sonant aspirates, (5) the fact that certain consonants are epenthetically affected by a following palatal vowel or semi-vowel, (6) the frequent interchange of c and ś, and of j and ž, and (7) the almost certain existence of the cerebralized palatals ç, j, ś, and ž.

For particular consonantal changes, we have d > l, and d > l > ž; initial y remaining unchanged, while initial v > b; change of initial r (through l) to ž; l > j > ž; intervocalic ś does not necessarily become h, but does so in one recorded instance; cch > ś; nd, nt, nth, ndh, all > n; tm > both t and p; jy > y; kr > ś (? ś); tr > c (? ç) and tl (? tl); dr > j (? j, ž); dv > both b and d; kś > ś (? ś) and c (? ç); kṣm > m; st > t; str > c (? ç); sph > p; and, in one case, sv > śu. Intervocalic n is occasionally, and intervocalic r and ṛ (including ry and rv) are always, elided.

The only prominent Dardic peculiarities that I have not noted in Tōrwālī are the preservation unchanged of st, and of other sibilant conjuncts such as sm, sv, preserved as sp; and the regular preservation of initial r-compounds, such as pr- and the like. In such cases, Tōrwālī has, with modifications, followed the Indian custom.

8. Attention may here be drawn to one prominent feature of Tōrwālī which is of some general interest. It is that Tōrwālī is an absolutely unwritten language. It is known only as it has come out of the mouths of its speakers, and not from any indigenous document; and, pace my friends who might wish, in regard to it, to follow the rules of Indo-European philology, these rules cannot be applied in all their strictness to such a language. The philological rules to which we are accustomed are based everywhere on written documents, whether Sanskrit, Latin, Greek, Gothic, English, or what not. We have such languages in a form that had become petrified by the fact that they were written. The written form represents the language as it was formalized at some definite period, or periods, of time. But a spoken language is never petrified, never formalized. It is always changing, and is never resting. At each particular moment it is actually passing through a process of development on its own lines, and the language as a whole of fifty years ago is not the same as that spoken at the present day. Moreover, on the same day, no two persons speak exactly the same language—one will say, for instance pata-ge, while another will say pade-ge, for “backwards”.<sup>1</sup> Again, in a spoken language, as distinct from one the standard of which has been fixed by writing, all words do not develop at the same rate. Different causes retard the development of particular words. Such a reason might be religious associations, or old memories that keep the word in its ancient form, or it might be—the most important of all—the demand for intelligibility. As an example, let us take the old Sanskrit word ghōṭa- “a horse”. If we followed the rules that, in the case of other similar words, obtain in Tōrwālī, the ṭ would become r and would then be elided, and the aspirated sonant gh would lose its aspiration, so as to become g. The resultant Tōrwālī word would thus be gō. But, unfortunately, in Tōrwālī, the word gō is already taken up for another purpose, and means “bull”.

<sup>1</sup> Here, however, Tōrwālī agrees with Apabhramśa Prakrit. As Apabhramśa was a North-Western dialect, it may be suggested that it has here fallen under the influence of Dardic.

<sup>2</sup> Here also, so far as concerns intervocalic surds, there is agreement with Apabhramśa. The same remarks apply also here.

<sup>1</sup> The same is true, say, for colloquial English. We might take three persons, one of whom will use the literary “are not”, another will say “aren’t”, while the third will say “aint”. It is obvious that the phonetic rule that accounts for the literary “are not” will not account for the simultaneous existence of both “aren’t” and “aint”.

As the first object of all language is not to oblige phoneticians, but to be intelligible, the normal development of ghōṭa—was stopped at an earlier stage, and the word remained as ghō—useful and intelligible, but disappointing to framers of phonetic rules. To take a parallel example from Indian colloquial speech:—according to the Prakrit grammarians and the literature standardized by them, the Sanskrit word kāka—“a crow”, became the literary Prakrit kāa—, the line of development being kāka—> kāga—> kāa. But the colloquial language felt the uncertainty of the word kāa. It could, it is true, represent kāka—“a crow”, but it could also represent kāca—“crystal”, and kāya—“the body”. As the speakers looked upon language, not as a machine for concealing thought, but as a machine for expressing it, and felt that kāa—in ordinary use would be unintelligible, it stopped its development at the second stage, kāga—, and, as we know from Hemacandra IV, 396, kept the word in that form for centuries after the literary language had given its blessing to kāa. Thus, kāg it has remained in Hindī to the present day. If this could occur in a language which had a written literature to act as a standard for normal pronunciation, what may we not expect from a language like Tōrwālī which has no written literature at all. In such a language, phonetic development in no way progresses so evenly as our comparative philologists would have us believe. Some words progressed along “regular” lines, as the Sanskrit gāv—has become the Tōrwālī gō; and others, in the same language, stopped their developments at the point where unintelligibility began. In the history of a language that has never been recorded in writing, and which at every moment of its life—for it, and it only, is really living—is developing on its own lines and at its own speed, halting here, progressing there, at no date is it possible, as some philologists would have us do, to draw a line, and to say that here it will be found that all words have arrived at the same stage of development. Tōrwālī, like all the Dardic languages, gives many examples of this. Some words are in one stage of development, and others are in another. In one word an intervocalic t may be elided, in another it may be changed to d, and in yet another to l. No general law will cover all these cases. Or, again, one man will develop a word in one way, and his neighbour (though speaking the same language) in another; or the same man, as the spirit moves him, will develop dv, into b, at one time, and into d at another. We cannot say that there are any definitely fixed rules for the development of an unwritten language. We must be content with acknowledging the existence of a general tendency towards one line of development. To attempt to twist such a tendency into a universal law is doing that for which the Indian Prakrit Grammarians have been condemned by every European scholar who has studied them.

THE ARTICLE

9. The numeral ē "one", serves as an indefinite article. Examples will be found under the head of numerals (§ 51).

As in other connected languages, a demonstrative pronoun is often found where we should employ the definite article. Numerous examples will be found in the sections dealing with pronouns.

DECLENSION

Gender of Nouns

10. The feminine gender certainly exists as a grammatical form, but is most easily observed in the case of adjectives and participles. As regards nouns, there are, as usual, certain cases in which different words are employed to distinguish gender. For human beings, such are:—

Masculine

bāp "father" (L. 47).
bhā "brother" (L. 49).
māś "man" (L. 51).
pūc "son" (L. 55).

Feminine.

yai "mother" (L. 48).
śū "sister" (L. 50).
chī (I, 51, 53), cī (? çī)
 "woman" (L. 57).
dhū "daughter" (L. 56).

For animals, we have :—

**ghō* “ horse ” (L. 138).

ghē “ mare ” (L. 139).

gō “ bull ” (L. 142).

gā “ cow ” (L. 143).

kujū “ dog ” (L. 146).

kijī “ bitch ” (L. 147).

* birāt “ he-goat ” (L. 150).

chal “ nanny-goat ” (L. 151 ;

II, 18).

husai “ stag ” (L. 153).

husī “ doe ” (L. 154).

A few words occurring in the folktales are feminine by meaning. Such are :—

chī (? cī) “ a wife ” (I, 51, 53).

rājgana “ a queen ” (III, 47 ff.).

saran “ a girl ” (III, 17 ff.).

11. Other words can be identified as feminine by their terminations, by the corresponding Paštō gender, or by words with which they are in agreement. Such are :—

arzī “ a request ” (III, 5).

χušālī “ happiness ”, in χušālī Xudā Pāk dī-cī “ God, the Pure has given happiness ” (I, 20).

mubārakī “ congratulation ” (I, 36).

pādšāhī, bādšāhī “ rule ”, in pādšāhī hī “ his rule became ” (III, 46, so 61).

māhiyā “ tax ” (II, 6).

bāt “ a word ”, in mēlī bāt banī “ said the same word ” (I, 35).

duwā “ a prayer ” (II, 42 ff.).

majlas “ an entertainment ”, as in majlas ašī “ there was an entertainment ” (I, 18).

mukadima “ a quarrel ” (II, 6).

pan, pand “ a road ”, in pan na hī “ there was no road ” (III, 57) ; mē aj cir pand kī-jī “ I have walked a long way to-day ” (L. 224).

sē “ a bridge ”, in sē telī “ he broke the bridge ” (II, 13).

yāp “ a canal ”, in tē yāp nigālī “ he excavated that canal ” (III, 54).

zōg “ noise ”, in derē zōg hī “ there was a noise at the door ” (III, 20).

žāt “ night ”, in ar žāt hī “ it was midnight ” (III, 43).

12. As a rule, no means are available for testing the genders of the nouns occurring in the Folktales. Indeed, only of the words given in the above lists is the gender fairly certain. Biddulph, however, in his vocabulary marks the gender of every noun mentioned by him, and this information is taken from it, and recorded again in the vocabulary appended to the present account of the language.

Declension

13. The following may be taken to be the principal forms in the declension of šir, a house :—

	Singular.	Plural.
Nominative	šir	šir
Agentive	širē, šir	šir, (?) širā
Accusative	šir	šir
Instrumental	širē-dē	širā-dē
Dative	šir-kē, (-gē, -yē)	širā-kē
Ablative	širā, šir-mā, -kējā	širā-mā, -kējā
Genitive	šir-si	širā-si
Locative	širē, šir-mē	širā-mē

The above paradigm is to be taken only as a general guide. No complete paradigm of any single word can be gathered from the forms given in the Folktales. Details for each case are given below.

14. Singular Nominative.—Naturally, no remarks are necessary for this case.

15. Singular Vocative.—Two Vocatives occur in the Folktales. In Sulaimāniga “O Sulaimānik!” (III, 40), the Interjection is probably a, and the final k, coming between two vowels, has been softened to g (§ 3*d*). The other vocative is ē zuwān “O youth!” (I, 47), and calls for no remarks.

16. Singular Accusative.—The object of a transitive verb takes no special termination. In other words, the Accusative is the same in form as the Nominative. Thus, ū nīgal “draw water!” (L. 237); bayān kō “recite!” (II, 35); dērā wadān kō

“put the house in order!” (I, 25); dērā janā “make ye the house clean!” (I, 27); duwā kō “grant thou a favour!” (II, 44); gil diū-šad “was giving bread” (I, 29); χānī nimā-dū “(I) desire Khānship” (II, 38); lāṭ kuwa “do ye fighting!” (III, 5, 28); mubārakī de “give congratulation!” (I, 36); pan sabā “prepare a road!” (III, 37); saran mē-gē dē “give the daughter to me” (I, 48); mē saran ā gina-dū “I take this girl” (III, 25); miā šālmī pāyis-ke de “give this rupee (? these rupees, § 94) to him!” (L. 234); tanū šū me-gē dū “give thy sister to me!” (I, 33); tapōs kōnin “he may make inquiry” (I, 37).

17. Singular Oblique Form.—There are traces of an Oblique Form used before postpositions, the termination being a (or ā) or e (or ē). Occasionally, the oblique form in e (ē) by itself indicates some case. Thus, we shall see that it is employed to indicate the Agentive (§ 21) and the Locative (§ 38). Similarly, we have the Oblique form in a in lāda šit “aware of the fight” (III, 19, 21). With postpositions, the form in e occurs in Sulaimānike sāt “with Sulaimānik” (III, 3), and in Mingaore-ye “(went) to Mingaora” (I, 1), and is also common before the Instrumental postposition de (§ 23).

Generally, however, as in Tirāhī, the termination of the Oblique Form is dropped before a postposition, so that it is the same in form as the Nominative. Numerous instances will be found in the following paragraphs.

18. Two feminine words ending in ū deserve special mention here. One is šū “a sister”, which has an Oblique Form šī, in tanū šī-ge (or -yē) “(said) to his sister” (I, 27, 42). No occurrence of the Plural of this word has been noted. The other word is dhū “a daughter”. For this, we have no example of the Oblique Singular, but the Nominative Plural is dhī, with an Oblique Plural dhia (? dhīā) (L. 115, 116). We may conclude, therefore, that these two words are declined as follows :—Sing. Nom. šū, dhū; Obl. šī, dhī; Plur. Nom. šī, dhī; Obl. šia (? šīā), dhia (dhīā). It may be noted that in Wazirī Pāštō ū regularly becomes ī, and that in Kāšmīrī

ū becomes ī in an oblique case, as in krūr "a well", sg. dat. krīris.

19. As in the last two words, the termination of the Plural Oblique form is a or ā. This will be considered more particularly under the head of the Plural (§ 45).

20. In Šinā, the Singular Oblique Form ends in ā, and the Plural in ō.

21. Singular Agentive.—As in cognate languages, the subject of a transitive verb in a tense formed from the past participle is put into the Agentive case. The full form of this case is the same as that of the Oblique Form in e, but is rarely used. Examples are:—pōē (Nom. pō) tapōs kī "the boy made inquiry" (I, 24); puē (Nom. pō) bēbā kī-dū "the boy has made a marriage" (L. 225); Sulaimānīke hukum kī "Sulaimānik made an order" (III, 13, so 59).

22. Generally, however, as in Tirāhī, the termination is dropped, so that the Agentive case is the same in form as the Nominative. Thus: jumāldār bāt banī "the headman said a word" (I, 35); kufār haḡat "the Kāfir drove (them) away" (II, 15); ḡušālī Xudā Pāk dī-cī "God, the Pure, has given happiness" (I, 20); māš mē ḡān-ma tapōs kī "the man made inquiry from this Khān" (I, 5), and śō elsewhere; rāḡgana ḡin "the queen took him" (III, 55); pūc (or puē, see above) bēbā kī-dū "the son has made a marriage" (L. 225). From these examples, it will be seen that the special form for the Agentive case has practically gone out of use, and has been noted only in regard to two words.

23. Singular Instrumental.—The postposition of the Instrumental case is te (or tē). The same postposition is used to form the Conjunctive Participle (§ 202). The meaning of the case is often indefinite, and sometimes approaches that of a Locative. The postposition generally follows the Oblique Form in e (ē). Examples (without the Oblique Form) are: jabal hat-te ḡina-ḡā "he took the pick-axe with (i.e. into) his hand" (III, 38); melāštōp-te ḡā "he went by (i.e. on) a visit" (III, 48).

24. After a vowel or n, te becomes de, as in payim diše-de “on the opposite side” (III, 56); yame-de “on account of a trouble” (I, 11, dē 55); khē-de gan “bind with a rope” (L. 236); cir miḍē-dē kūḍū-dū “(I) have beaten with many stripes (L. 228); sē-dē langī “crossed by a bridge” (II, 12). In one case—kan-de diḍ “struck (her) with an arrow” (III, 30)—the termination of the Oblique Form has been dropped.

25. The postposition te is common both in Dardic and in Indian. Cf. Hindi tē, and my Pisāca Languages, p. 34.

26. Singular Dative.—The postposition of the Dative is kē, gē, yē, or ē, often written ke, ge, ye, e. With kē, we have : dād-ke “(said) to the ancestor” (II, 8, 9); gām-ke “(went) to the village” (III, 45); kufār-ke “for the sake of the Kāfir” (II, 11); lāt-ke “(ready) for fighting” (III, 11, 12); māš-ke “(said) to the man” (III, 12); rabaṛ-ke “(go) for a fight” (III, 13); Sulaimānik-kē “(said) to Sulaimānik” (III, 11); Sulaimānik-ke, id. (III, 58); šir-ke “(came, went) to the house” (I, 42; II, 15; entered, III, 29). In Sulaimānike bardāt kī “made Sulaimānik defeated” (III, 16), Sulaimānike is contracted from Sulaimānik-ke, and the word (in the bhāvē prayōga) is the object of a transitive verb in the past tense. Similarly, tē rājgana Sulaimānige gin “that queen took Sulaimānik” (III, 55), in which the k of the contracted Sulaimānike has been softened to g, as coming between two vowels (§ 3d).

27. For gē, we have :—tanū bādšāh-ge wat “came to his own rule” (III, 60); Bihū-ge “(go, etc.) to Bihun” (III, 13, 14, 48, 51); gām-ge “to the village” (III, 56, 60); Gurnāl-ge “(came) to G.” (III, 10); kām-gē “(recited) to the tribe” (II, 33); Kanbel-ge “(took) him to K.” (III, 36); pade-ge “(drove them) backwards” (II, 13, 14, 15); pat-gē āp “came back” (I, 26); pō-gē “(said) to the boy” (I, 33); Semū-ge “(said) to S.” (III, 35); šī-ge “(said) to the sister” (I, 27); watan-gē “(went, etc.) to the country” (I, 46; II, 1, 7); yai-ge “(said) to the mother” (I, 27).

28. For yē or ē, we have :—Bāba-ye “(brought him) to the Bābā" (II, 24); karmā-ye " (said) to the army " (III, 13); mubāraki-ye āp " came for congratulation " (I, 40); Mayō-ye " (said) to Mayō " (III, 34); mē pō-ē bana-dū " he says to this boy " (I, 25); rājgana-ye " (said) to the queen " (III, 50); Semū-ye " (said) to S. " (III, 7, so 33); šī-yē " (said) to the sister " (I, 42). In pō-ē, above, the y has been dropped between two vowels.

In yāra-ye " (an exile) on the bank (of the Indus) " (III, 4), and in šīr-ke " in the house " (I, 27), the Dative is used in the sense of the Locative. In Mingaore-ye " (went) to Mingaora " (I, 1), Mingaore is in the Oblique Form.

29. From instances like gām-ke and gām-ge, šī-ge and šī-yē, we can conclude that these three postpositions may be used ad libitum, one for the other. The original postposition was probably ke, of which ge and ye (e) are weakened forms. Ke (< krtē) is a common Dative suffix in Dardic and Indian languages, and in Maiyā it reappears as gai. So far as we can see, words ending in vowels seem to prefer ge or ye (or e), or, in other words, the k between two vowels tends to become g, and then to disappear, a y being inserted in compensation. Similarly, in Šīnā, the termination āgo, of the past participle, is liable, in the colloquial language, to be sounded as āyo.

30. Singular Ablative.—The Singular Ablative sometimes ends in ā (or a). Thus, šīrā jāma pewū " he sent clothes from the house " (I, 50); puxtuā nigāt " issued (i.e. ceased) from enmity " (I, 52); šīra nigāt " issued from the house " (III, 31); Sulaimānik nīnā ucīt " Sulaimānik arose from sleep " (III, 43); Kalāma-wa " down from Kalām " (III, 61); Semū watana haṣat " Semū drove (him) from the country " (III, 3).

31. More often, the Ablative is indicated by the postposition ma (or mā), or miā " from in ", or by the postposition kējā " from ". The former may be compared with the Tirāhī mā, the Kāśmīrī manza, and the Sanskrit madhyāt. Kējā is a compound of ke, the postposition of the Dative, and jā. With jā, compare the Šīnā jō, žō. Examples with mā, etc.,

are: kū-mā "from the well" (L. 237); χān-ma " (asked) from the Khān" (I, 5); māš-ma " (asked) from the man" (I, 24); saran-ma " (asked) from the girl" (III, 28); Badaχ-šan-miā " (he came) from Badakhshān" (II, 7); tē Kufār-miā pade-ge šeyat "they were driven backwards from (i.e. by) that Kāfir" (II, 13); Gurnāl-miā " (the army came) from Gurnāl" (III, 14); Katār-miā " (he came) from Katār" (II, 1); Tōrwāl-miā " (he took taxes) from Tōrwāl" (II, 5).

32. For kējā, we have:—dukāndār-kējā " (I bought it) from a shopkeeper" (L. 241); šū-kējā " (taller) than the sister" (L. 231).

33. Postpositions signifying "after" govern the Ablative, as in telā pāš "after from then", i.e. after that time (II, 49; III, 47); pō te-kējā piyāj ye-dū "the boy comes behind thee" (L. 239).

34. Singular Genitive.—The Genitive takes the termination -si (sometimes written -se, -sē). This may be compared with the Tirāhī Genitive termination -s or -si, with the Kāśmīrī Dative termination -s, with the Šīnā termination -se<sup>1</sup> of the Agentive, and with the Sanskrit Genitive termination -sya. There does not appear to be any difference of function between the termination -si and the termination -se (-sē).<sup>2</sup> Examples are:—Abā-sīn-si yara-ye "to the bank of the Indus" (III, 4); Bāba-si kām-gē "to the tribe of the Bābā" (II, 33); χušālī bāp-si "happiness of the father" (I, 22); biū-si thām "a biū-tree" (II, 31); chal-si ciš "the breast of a she-goat" (II, 18); dād-si e pō "a son of the ancestor" (II, 16); dē-si kaman "a master of the share" (II, 25); gām-si xalak "the people of the village" (I, 30); ghō-si zīn "the saddle of the horse" (L. 226); Jebēya-si dād "the ancestor of the Jabēr (clan)" (II, 7, etc.); kām-si imām "the Imām of the tribe" (II, 50); χān-sē saran "the daughter of a Khān" (I, 39, 43); χān-sē malāž "a guest of the Khān" (I, 46); χān-sē watan-gē "to the country of the Khān" (I, 46); χān-sē cĥi (? cĥi) "the wife of the Khān" (I, 53); χāna-si dād "the ancestor of Khāna" (II, 34); mās-si šū "the man's sister" (L. 225); mās-se pō "the man's son" (L. 228); mās-se bhā "the man's brother" (L. 231); Mayō-si mās "men of Mayo" (III, 22); Mišku-si cālā-bā "up to the rock of Mishku" (III, 61); Nariā-si dād "the ancestor of the Narēr (clan)" (II, 1); pō-si šū "the sister of the boy" (I, 44); pižī-si pūc "the son of the uncle" (L. 225); Semū-se lāt-ke "for a fight of (i.e. with) Semū" (III, 12); Semū-si karmā "S.'s army" (III, 14); Semū-si šir-ke "to S.'s house" (III, 39); sitār-sē mās "the man of the guitar" (I, 5, etc.); Sulaimānik-si karmā "S.'s army" (III, 14); Sulaimānik-si saran "S.'s daughter" (III, 23); Sulaimānik-si pādšāhī "the rule of S." (III, 46, so 61); šai-se kīmat "the price of the thing" (L. 232); Tōwāl-si Imām "the Imām of Tōrwāl" (II, 51); ṭubak-si duwā "the grant of a rifle" (II, 44, 45); watan-sē χān-se pušt "a descendant of the Khān of the country" (I, 12); watan-si šerākat "division of the country" (II, 8); watan-si wazīr "the wazīr of the country" (II, 42); yai-si cīs "the breast of the mother" (II, 18, 21).

35. The Genitive is sometimes governed by a postposition as in ghō-se jada "on a horse" (L. 230); Ningōf-se kac-ke "(went) near N." (I, 2); saran-si kan-ke "(went) near the girl" (III, 29); dadān-si ken-ta "by the side of the fireplace" (III, 42); Tōwāl-si muš-ke "in front of Tōrwāl" (II, 31); thām-si ṭin "under a tree" (L. 230).

36. In one instance, the Oblique Form, or Ablative, alone, is used for the Genitive. It is nedā phēm diše, on the opposite side of the river" (II, 3).

37. The verb √di- "strike" apparently puts the object struck in the Genitive, as in saran-si kan-de dīd "he struck the girl with an arrow" (III, 30); Semū-si šā-si dīd "he struck Semū's head" (III, 44). It is to be noted that in Šiṇā verbs of striking do not take the accusative, but take a special variety of the Oblique Form for the object struck.<sup>1</sup>

38. Singular Locative.—The Oblique Form in e (ē) is commonly used in a locative sense. Thus, derē “at the door” (III, 21); dišē “on the (opposite) side (of the river)” (II, 3; dišē, III, 37); širē “in the house” (III, 18; L. 223, 226, 233). A Locative in o occurs in panjam kālō (Nom. kāl) “in the fifth year” (III, 9).

39. The postposition mē (variants, mē, mī, mī) means “in”, as in hat-mē “in the hand” (I, 4); hujrā-mē “in the guest-room” (I, 18); kile-mē “in the village” (II, 19); manjlas-mē “in the entertainment” (I, 21); Tōwāl-mē “in Tōrwāl” (II, 2); khand-mē “on the hill-top” (L. 229).

Bihū-mī “in Bihun” (III, 47); Kanbel-mī “in K.” (III, 2); lāt-mī “in the fight” (III, 16); Mayō-mī “in M.” (III, 4); Punkā-mī “in P.” (II, 3); Tōwāl-mī “in Tōrwāl” (II, 20, 29); watan-mī “in the country” (II, 10; III, 8, 46).

40. The postposition žet means “over”, and also “concerning”, “about”. Thus, gām-žet “(rule) over the village” (III, 1); rājgana-žet “(in love) concerning (i.e. with) the queen” (III, 49); saran-žet pašat “they quarrelled over the girl” (III, 24).

41. Other Locative postpositions are bā “up to”; pōrē “up to, till”; jada “upon”; kan-ke “to near”; and ken-ta “beside”. Examples are: Mišku-si cālā-bā “up to the rock of Mishku” (III, 61); sattam pērīa pōrē “till the seventh generation” (II, 48); ghō-se jada “(seated) on a horse” (L. 230); te saran-si kan-ke gā “he went to near that girl” (III, 29); dadān-si ken-ta “by the side of the fireplace” (III, 42). It will be observed that jada, kan-ke, and ken-ta “govern the genitive”.

In the phrase ē dī “on one day” (I, 18, 32), the locative takes no postposition whatever.

42. Of the above postpositions, mē can be compared with the Indian mē, Kāšmīrī manz, Veron munj, Maiyā maz, Šiṇā mažā, Paštō miyanj, Sanskrit madhyē, and Avesta maiḍyāna. The origin of the others is obscure. The word žet may be compared with the Šiṇā aže "on", and with the Caspian Persian -ja (Avesta haca). Pōrē is borrowed from Paštō. Bā may be the Persian bā. Jada is probably merely a by-form of žet.

43. Plural.—The List of Words shows a few substantives that form the plural by adding e, which, when the word ends in a vowel, forms a diphthong. These are bāpe (sing. bāp) "fathers" (L. 106); ghē "a mare", plur. ghai (L. 141); gā "a cow", plur. gai (L. 145). Similarly, in the Folktales, we have saranē "girls" (sing. saran) (III, 17). The plural of dhū "a daughter", is dhī (L. 115), and the word šū "a sister", also has its plural probably šī (see § 18).

As in Tirāhī, however, the Nominative Plural in the Folktales and List is, except in the cases given above, always the same as the singular. The word bhai "brothers", "cousins"<sup>1</sup> (I, 15, 31) (singular bhā) is the only other exception. Examples are birāt "he-goats" (L. 152); chal "she-goats" (id.); gō "bulls" (L. 144); ghō "horses" (L. 140); husai "deer" (L. 155); dō kāl "two years" (II, 47); kijī "bitches" (L. 149); kufār (sing. kufār or kupār) "Kāfirs" (II, 17); kujū "dogs" (L. 148); χalak "people" (collective noun) (I, 30; III, 33); mās "men" (III, 22); Musulmān "Musalmāns" (II, 29); dvāš puš "twelve sons" (II, 4); pūc "sons" (L. 223); saran "daughters" (cf. saranē "above"), (L. 115); dū šālmī "two rupees" (L. 232).

44. For the Accusative Plural, we have jāma pai "send clothes!" (I, 49); māl ciā-dū "he is grazing cattle" (L. 229); tiyā šālmī gin "take those rupees!" (L. 235).

45. The Plural has an Oblique Form ending in a (or ā), used before postpositions, but, as in the Singular, it is often dropped. For the Plural Dative, we have bhayā-gē (Sing. Nom. bhā, Plur. Nom. bhai) “to the brothers” (I, 32); bōba-ye (Sing. Nom. bāp) “to fathers” (L. 108); dhia-gē (Sing. Nom. dhū, Plur. Nom. dhī) “to daughters” (L. 117); māš “a man” (Sing. Dat. māš-ke, Plur. Nom. māš, Dat. māza-ge) (§ 3*d*) (L. 119, 121, 124, 126). With the Oblique termination dropped, we have malāž-ge “to the guests” (I, 29); saran-gē “to daughters” (L. 117).

46. For the Plural Ablative, we have dhia-mā or dhia-kējā “from daughters” (L. 118).

For the Plural Genitive, we have bōba-sē “of fathers” (L. 107); dhia-si “of daughters” (L. 116); and, with the termination dropped, saran-si “of daughters” (L. 116).

ADJECTIVES

47. Some genuine Tōrwālī adjectives, especially those strong forms descended from original words with the ka-suffix, change for gender as in the allied languages; but, so far as the Folktales go, there are few clear examples available—I have, indeed, noted only two. One is tē jumāldār bī mēlī bāt banī “that headman again said the same word” (I, 35). Here mēlī is certainly feminine, but we do not know the form of the masculine. The other is lehīr chal “a red she-goat” (II, 18). Here lehīr, or lihīr is the feminine of lohūr “red”, given in Biddulph’s vocabulary. We shall, however, under the head of verbs (§§ 189, 194, 199), find several instances of feminine Past Participles, in which there has been a change of form on account of gender. On the other hand, many adjectives with a weak termination do not change for gender or number, and the same applies to certain adjectives borrowed from Paštō. Thus:—

nākāra "bad", in nākāra pō "a bad boy" (L. 129); nākāra saran "a bad girl" (L. 131).

48. As the materials in the Folktales on this important point are so scanty, I here give a list of adjectives that change for gender, abstracted from Biddulph's English-Torwálák vocabulary. These I have arranged in classes, permitting us to formulate rules that will apply to others not given in the list. It will be observed that in many cases the change is, as in Kāśmīrī, due to old epenthesis, although the original termination that caused the epenthesis has in most cases disappeared. One example will show what I mean. The word kišun "black" has a feminine kišen. This shows that the masculine had originally some such form as **kišanu* (derived from Skt. kr̥ṣṇakāḥ), with a feminine **kišani*. In the language as at present spoken **kišanu*, by epenthesis, has become kišun, and **kišani* has become kišen, just as the corresponding Kāśmīrī word krēhon has, by epenthesis, krēhūñ for its feminine.

Sometimes the epenthesis is carried further back than the final syllable. Thus, from the Skt. kōmalakāḥ "soft", we have kumul (for **kumalu* or **kamalu*), with a feminine kemel (for **kumali* or **kamali*). This epenthesis even occurs, by analogy, in words borrowed from other languages, such as Persian or Paštō. Such a word is kamzōr "weak", of which the feminine is kemzer.

49. The following is the list of Adjectives taken from Biddulph's vocabulary:—

Adjectives ending in ā or āh change the final ā or āh to ā, as in:—

Masculine.	Feminine.
hujā "alert"	hūjā (note the double epenthesis)
sugāh "easy"	sugā

Those in o change o to e, as in:—

šijo "beautiful"	šije (cf. šijā , bel.)
ošo "ugly"	eše (double epenthesis)

Those in ū change ū to i, as in :—

hukū “ brave, generous ” huki

šijū “ clean ” šiji (cf. šijo, ab.)

But cunū “ yellow ” cene (double epenthesis)

So, words with the adjectival ending -hū change to i, as in :—

šidāhū “ cold ”. šidaihi (from šidal “ cold ”, subst.)

bušauhū “ hungry ” bušaihi (from buš “ hunger ”)

tišauhū “ thirsty ” tišaihi (from tiš “ thirst ”)

Others change ū to ü, as in :—

bū “ deaf ” bü

kū “ hard ” kü

ūgū “ heavy ” ügü (double epenthesis)

Words ending in a consonant preceded by a generally change

a to e, as in :—

gan “ great ” gen

jūbal “ thin ” jübel

ūtal “ high ”, however, has ūtil, which may be a mere variation of spelling for ūtel.

There are two exceptions :—

laš “ bad ” laš

an “ blind ” an, in which the a of an (masc.) is sounded like the u in “ gun ”, while the a of an (fem.) is sounded like the a in “ America ”.

When a word ends in a consonant preceded by ā, the ā becomes ä, as in :—

bār “ fat, thick ” bär

In similar circumstances, e also becomes ä, as in :—

kamāder “ industrious ” kamädär

In similar circumstances, i becomes ī, as in :—

bizin “ broad ”	bizīn
jik “ long ”	jīk
cit “ low ”	cīt

In similar circumstances, o usually becomes e, as in :—

kol , “ crooked ”	kel	} (double epenthesis)
anatol “ dirty ”	anatel
koror “ round ”	kerer
kamzōr “ weak ”	kemzer

An exception is :—

sot “ slow ”	sōt
---------------------	------------

In the following word, ō becomes a :—

ōž (? ōž ) “ wet ”	až (? až ). The corresponding Šir word is ažu .
----------------------------------	--

In similar circumstances, u sometimes becomes i, as in :—

cuk “ acid ”	cik
cun “ narrow ”	cin
lud (? lud ) “ small ”	lid (? lid )

and sometimes becomes e (probably a matter of spelling as in :—

kišun “ black ”	kišen	} (double epenthesis)
χuš “ happy ”	χeš
pišul “ smooth ”	pišel
kumul “ soft ”	kemel
kurrun “ short ”	keren

Exceptions are :—

kud “ lame ”	kūd
ūpur “ light ”	ipūr (? īpir )

In similar circumstances, ū becomes ī, as in :—

lohūr “ red ”	lihūr (double epenthesis)
šūs (? šūš ) “ straight, upright ”	šīs (? šīš )

50. As in connected languages, comparison is effected by putting the thing with which comparison is made into the Ablative case, as in šū-kējā ucat "taller than the sister" (L. 231). The Superlative is obtained with the help of the Locative of bud or būd "all", as in būda-mē ucat "high among all, highest" (L. 137); būd māža-mī behtar "best of all men" (L. 134).

NUMERALS

51. Cardinals.—"One" is ē (variant e) or ek (variant ěk).

The word ē (e) is also regularly used as an indefinite article, as in: mūsā ē māž āp "a certain man came before him" (I, 3); ē dī "on a day, one day" (I, 18, 32); e mās ašū "there was a man" (I, 21); Punkā-mī e kupār ašū "there was a Kāfir in Punkā" (II, 3; so III, 2); e pō paidā hō-dū "a boy has been born" (II, 20); e biū-si thām ašū "there was a biū-tree" (II, 31); tesi e dušman ašū "he had an enemy" (III, 1); tesi e saran ašī "he had a daughter" (III, 17); telā pāš Bihū-mī e rājgana ašī "after that there was a queen in Bihun" (III, 47).

As a numeral, we have:—mō duyimo e huī "let us two become one" (II, 11); mē Jebēya-si dād-si e pō paidā hū "of this ancestor of Jabēr, there was one son born" (II, 16); e mās andere cir hušā ašū "one man among them was very intelligent" (III, 27); ek bana-dū "mē saran ā gina-dū", "one says, 'I will take this girl,' (another says, etc.)" (III, 25); ek dui-sāt jōr ne ye-dū "one does not come to agreement with the other" (III, 26); ěk "one" (L. 1).

A more definite form is e-ga, in tā Xodā e-ga dū na kuwē "may God not make one two for thee" (II, 48) or e-gī, in e-gī ti-hun jumāldār ašū "one of them was a head man" (I, 16). In III, 15, we have diūmo ek-dije eri huī which means "the two (armies) halted in front of each other". Regarding this sentence, see § 56, below.

52. "Two" dū (variants du, dō), as in ā te-gē du žāt majlis kō-dū "I am making an entertainment for thee for two nights" (I, 10); dō kāl gai "two years passed" (II, 47);

tā Xodā e-ga dū na kuwē (as shown under "one") (II, 48) ;
dū šālmī "two rupees" (L. 232).

53. "Three," cā (? cā) (L. 3) ; ca de "three parts" (II, 10).

"Four," cau (L. 4) (Biddulph, choh, i.e. co).

"Five," panj (L. 5) (Bid. pān).

"Six," šō (? šō) (L. 6).

"Seven," sat (L. 7).

"Eight," aṭ (L. 8).

"Nine," nōm (L. 9) ; nūm bīš saranē tisi-sāt ašī "nine times twenty girls were with her" (III, 17).

54. "Ten," daš (L. 10) ; mī daš bhai ašī "I had ten cousins" (I, 15) ; sē daš bhai āban-gē derī "those ten cousins remained by themselves" (I, 31).

"Eleven," agāš (Biddulph).

"Twelve," tisi dvāš puš ašī "he had twelve sons" (II, 4).
 (Bid. dūwāš.)

"Thirteen," ceš (? ceš) (Bid.).

"Fourteen," cetiš (Bid.).

"Fifteen," pañš (Bid.).

"Sixteen," šeš (? šeš) (Bid.).

"Seventeen," satāš (Bid.).

"Eighteen," atāš (? atāš) (Bid.).

"Nineteen," anbīš (Bid.).

"Twenty," bīš (L. 11) ; nūm bīš "nine times twenty", as in § 53.

21, ek-o-bīš (Bid.).

30, daš-o-bīš (Bid.).

40, dū bīš (Bid.).

50, daš o dū bīš (L. 12).

60, cā bīš (Bid.).

70, daš o cā bīš (Bid.).

80, co bīš (Bid.).

90, daš o co bīš (Bid.).

100, panj bīš (L. 13). Biddulph gives soh (i.e. so).

1,000, zer (Bid.).

It will be observed that the counting is vigesimal.

55. Ordinals.—We have :—

“First,” awal (borrowed from Paštō), in awal-mē Xāna-si dād wat “at first the ancestor of Khāna arrived” (II, 34). Biddulph gives mūš, which also means “before”.

“Second,” duyi, in pāji tisi dui bhā āp “afterwards his second brother came” (II, 39). Biddulph gives pāš, which also means “after”.

“Third,” cui (? cui) in pāji tisi cui bhā wat “afterwards his third brother arrived” (II, 43); dō kāl gai, cui kāl hō “two years passed, (and) the third year happened” (II, 47). Biddulph gives tlūi. The real word is probably cūi, with a cerebral ç.

“Fourth,” cōthum, in cōthum dē mī “the fourth share (is) mine” (II, 10); pāji ti-hun cōthum bhā ašū “afterwards there was their fourth brother” (II, 46).

“Fifth,” panjam (Bid. pānjam), in Semū-sāt panjam kālō karmā ucit “in the fifth year the army arose with Semū” (III, 9).

“Sixth” šowam (? šowam) (Biddulph).

“Seventh” sattam, in tā Xodā sattam pērīa pōrē e-ga dū na kuwē “may God not make one two (i.e. increase) for thee till the seventh generation” (II, 48).

56. Other numeral words are :—

duī “another”, in duī bana-dū, “mē sarqā ā gīna-dū”; ek dui-sāt jōr ne ye-dū “another says, ‘I am taking this girl’; one does not come to agreement with another” (III, 25). Compare ek-dije, under “one”, above (§ 51). The word dije is doubtful, not being clear in the original MS. Perhaps we should read duye.

diumo<sup>1</sup> or duyimo “the two, both”, in diumo ek-dije eri huī “the two armies halted in front of each other” (III, 15), but see above; mō duyimo te Kufār-ke e huī; ā duyimo sē-dē langī “‘let both of us become one for (the sake of) that Kāfir’; they both crossed (the river) by a bridge” (II, 11, 12).

57. ar "half", in ar žāt hī "half night became (i.e. it became midnight)" (III, 43); dū šālmī ō ar "two rupees and a half" (L. 232).

PRONOUNS

58. The Pronoun of the First Person is ā (variant a) "I". The following forms have been noted:—

Singular, Nom. ā, ai.
Ag.	mē, mē, mai, mā.
Acc.	mā, (Biddulph) mai.
Gen.	mī (variant mē ) ( mā o chī "of me and of thee").
Obl.	mē (variants me, mē ), (Bid.) ma.
Plural, Nom. mō (variant mō ), mōi (emph.), (Bid.) ma.
Ag.	maḥī, mōi (emph.).
Acc.	(Bid.) ma.
Gen.	amun, mun.
Obl.	(Bid.) mo.

When forms are not available in the specimens I have given those shown by Biddulph. I have also given forms shown by him when they differ from mine. Examples of the use of this Pronoun are:—

59. Singular Nominative.—ā s<sup>a</sup>wāl kō-dū "I make a request" (I, 9); ā xān-se pušt thū "I am the descendant of a Khān" (I, 12); ā lūt āšū "I was small" (I, 13); ā ka cal keī "what device shall I do?" (I, 24); ā xušāl hō "I became happy" (I, 40); ā gā "I went" (I, 43); ā biži "I shall go" (I, 44); ā abanī baže-dū "I am going myself" (I, 45); ā te-gē dai "I will give (her) to thee" (I, 49); ā yamjān hō-thū "I have become worried" (I, 55); ā nimā-dū "I wish (for)" (II, 38, 41); ā jōr thū "I am ready" (III, 12); ā gina-dū "I am taking" (III, 25); ā kī "I shall make" (III, 28); ā (fem.) ta gina-žī "I take thee" (III, 51); yāp ā nigālī "I will excavate a canal" (III, 52); ā ta ginī "I will take thee" (III, 53); ai nidā kao-dud "I was making inspection" (I, 19).

60. Singular Agentive.—mē banū “I said” (I, 20); mē tanū šū tēs-kē na dīt “I did not give my sister to him” (I, 34); mē aj cir pand kī-jī “to-day I have made a long journey” (L. 224); mē kūdū-dū “I have beaten” (L. 228); mai kudū “I struck” (L. 185); mā pan sabat “I prepared the road” (III, 41).

61. Singular Accusative.—mā gin “take me!” (III, 50).

62. Singular Genitive.—mī bāp mū, mī dērā šat hū “my father died, my house became ruined” (I, 13-14); mī daš bhai ašī “I had ten cousins” (I, 15); sē mī tarbūr ašū “he was my paternal cousin” (I, 17); mī dērā janā “clean ye my house” (I, 27); cōthum dē mī “the fourth share (is) mine” (II, 10); mī yai ū bāp kāfir thī “my mother and father are unbelievers” (II, 29); mī bāp “my father” (L. 233); mē pižī-si pūc “the son of my uncle” (L. 225); watan-si mā o chī šerīkat hī “let there be division of the country of (i.e. between) me and thee” (II, 8).

63. Singular Oblique.—chī mē-gē ka kam thū “what business is there of thee for (i.e. with) me?” (I, 7); tanū šū me-gē dū “give thy daughter to me!” (I, 33); ē tanū šū me-gē na dīt “he did not give me his daughter” (I, 35); tā me-gē ka mubārakī dīt “what congratulations didst thou give to me?” (I, 38); tanū saran mē-gē dē “give me thy daughter!” (I, 48); me-gē jāma pai “send to me clothes!” (I, 49); mē-ge ṭubak-si duwā kō “do to me the benediction of (i.e. present me with) a rifle!” (II, 44); aban mē-gē lāt-ke jōr ku “make thyself for me ready for a fight!” (III, 11); mē-tē-gē kam thū “there is business for me and for thee” (I, 6); mē-ye kalimā bayān kō “repeat the creed to me” (II, 35).

mē-sāt lāt kuwa “make ye a fight with me” (III, 5).

64. Plural Nominative.—mō bana-dū “we say” (I, 33); mō bižī “let us go” (I, 36); mō banīn “let us say” (I, 39); mō puxtuā nigāt “we have gone out (i.e. ceased) from enmity” (I, 52); mō druymo e hū “we two shall become one” (II, 11);

mō tihā musulmān kē “let us make them Moslems” (II, 29); mō is recorded only in L. 17; mōi te-sāt karmā yanin, te watan-nī mōi lāt kī, mōi barai kī, besyāt mōi ginin “we verily will go with thee as an army, we verily did fighting in that country, we verily made victory, we verily shall take loot” (III, 7, 8). This sentence is the only authority for the form mōi, which seems to be an emphatic form—“It is we who, etc.”

65. Plural Agentive.—mahī kuḍū “we struck” (L. 188). This is the only authority. Cf. tahī, the corresponding form of tū “thou” (§ 69). For mōi, see te watan-nī mōi lāt kī, mōi barai kī, at the end of the preceding paragraph.

66. Plural Genitive.—The only authority for amun and mun is L. 18, 19. Amun appears to be doubtful. Biddulph also gives mun.

67. Plural Oblique.—tē mō-ma tapōs kō-nin “(if) he make (i.e. ask) a question from us” (I, 37).

68. All the above forms can easily be explained from Indo-Eranian analogies, except the Genitive Plural, amun or mun. These last can be compared with the Gawar-bati amō-na. It is evident that the final n is the relic of an old postposition. Compare also the Dōḍā dialect of Kāśmīrī āhmō, and the Gārwi mō, both Genitives Plural.

69. The Pronoun of the Second Person is tū “thou”. The following forms have been noted :—

Singular,	Nom.	tū (variant tu ), ta .
	Ag.	tā (variant ta ), tai .
	Acc.	tā , (Biddulph) tai .
	Gen.	chī (variant chi ), (Bid.) ci .
	Obl.	tē (variant te ), (Bid.) tai .
Plural,	Nom.	tō (variant to ), thō .
	Ag.	tahī .
	Acc.	(Bid.) to .
	Gen.	tun , thun .
	Obl.	(Bid.) to .

When forms are not available in the specimens, I have given those shown by Biddulph. I have also given forms shown by him when they differ from mine. Examples of the use of this Pronoun are :—

70. Singular Nominative.—tū kēt-si thū “of where are thou ?” (I, 6); tu ka s<sup>a</sup>wāl kō-dū “what request dost thou make ?” (I, 9); tu ka γame-de γam-jān hō-dū, “by what trouble art thou troubled ?” (I, 11); tu baž “go thou !” (I, 25, 44, 45); tu gā-šū “thou hadst gone” (I, 39); tu kē āp “why art thou come ?” (I, 47); tu beš-te me-gē jāma pai “do thou, having gone, send clothes to me !” (I, 49); tu γora māš thū “thou art a good man” (I, 56); tu ka nīmā-dū “what dost thou desire ?” (II, 37, 40); tu yāp nigāl “do thou excavate a canal” (III, 51).

71. Singular Agentive.—tā me-gē ka mubārakī dit “what congratulation didst thou give me ?” (I, 38); saran tā aban-ge lehī “thou demandest the girl for thyself” (I, 39); tā pan sabat “didst thou prepare the road ?” (III, 40); ta yāp nigālī “(if) thou didst excavate the canal” (III, 53); pāē cīz tā kis-kējā gin-thū “from whom hast thou bought that thing ?” (L. 240). The form tai occurs only in tai kudū “thou struckest” (L. 186).

72. Singular Accusative.—tā mānin “they may kill thee” (I, 44); tā Xodā e-ga dū na kuwē “may God not make two one (for) thee (i.e. increase thy offspring)” (II, 48); ā ta talā gina-žī “I (fem.) am then taking thee” (III, 51, similarly 53).

73. Singular Genitive.—ē xušālī chī bāp-si ašī “this pleasure was of thy father” (i.e. he used to have it) (I, 22); ca de mī watan-mī chī “three shares in this country (are) thine” (II, 10); chī nām ka thū “what is thy name ?” (L. 220); chī bāp-si širē “in thy father’s house” (L. 223).

74. Singular Oblique.—mē-tē-ge kam thū “there is business for me (and) thee” (i.e. I have business with thee) (I, 6); ā te-gē majlis kō-dū “I (will) make an entertainment for thee” (I, 10); te-gē mubāraki-ye āp “I came to thee for congratulation" (I, 40); ā te-gē dai "I give to thee" (I, 49); ā te-gē s<sup>a</sup>wāl kō-dū "I make a request to thee" (I, 56); hē te-ge kasab kuwē "he may do work for thee" (III, 35).

ā te-kējā s<sup>a</sup>wāl kō-dū "I am making a request from thee" (I, 8); ā te-kējā xānī nimā-dū "I desire Khānship from thee" (II, 38); te-kējā piyāj "behind thee" (L. 239).

ā te-sāt šerīkat na kō-dū "I do not do sharing with thee" (II, 9); mōi te-sāt karmā yanin "we verily will go with thee as an army" (III, 7); te-sād maškulā "conversation with thee" (I, 56).

75. Plural Nominative.—to baža "go ye!" (I, 41); to lāt na kuwa "do not ye fighting!" (III, 28). The word is written thō in L. 160, 166, 183, 199, 209, 215.

76. Plural Agentive.—tahī kudū "ye struck" (L. 189).

77. Plural Genitive.—ē manjlas thun hujrā-mē hō-dut "this entertainment used to be in your guest-house" (I, 23). L. 24, 25 have tun.

78. It will be observed that the above forms are parallel to those of the first person. Most can at once be explained by Indo-Eranian analogies. The aspirated forms thō and thun, alongside of tō and tun, may be compared with the Rājasthānī (Mārwarī, etc.) thē, as well as with the Gārwi thā and Dōdā tuh (Standard Kāšmīrī, tōh<sup>i</sup>), all meaning "you". Compare, also, the Šīṇā (Drās) thō "thou".

DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS

79. The Proximate Demonstrative Pronoun is ē (written ēh in L. 26) "this (near), he". It also appears under the form hē (Biddulph, he). Biddulph gives the following declension:—

Singular.	Plural.
Nom. he .	iya .
Acc. ess (? es ).	iyā .
Gen. issa (? isa ).	iyasa .
Abl. ez-ma .	iya-ma .

80. Singular Nominative.—Examples in the specimens are: hē mē lāḍa šit kī “she became aware of this fight” (III, 21); hē kāmē māš gīna-žī “which man does she take?” (III, 28); hē te-ge kasab kuwē “he may do work for thee” (III, 35).

81. Singular Agentive.—ē tanū šū me-gē na dūt “he did not give his sister to me” (I, 35).

We have an Oblique Form in ēs paš “after this” (I, 30). Before a sonant this becomes ez, as in Biddulph’s ez-ma.

82. Plural Nominative.—ē bažē-dī “they go” (L. 210), and hē paḍe-ge nurī “they turned backwards” (II, 14); tē Kufār hē hažat “they were driven away by that Kāfir” (II, 15); hē gai “they went” (III, 32). Biddulph, as we have seen, gives iya.

83. As a Pronominal Adjective, ē seems to be immutable, as in:—ē xušālī chi bāp-si ašī; ē manjlas thun hujrā-mē hō-dut “this pleasure was thy father’s; this entertainment used to be in your guest-room” (I, 22, 23); ē pō pat-gē āp “this boy came back” (I, 26); ē pō andare bēth “this boy sat inside” (I, 29); ē jamāldār bana-dū “this headman says” (I, 32, 52); ē xān lewānai hū “this Khān became mad” (I, 54); ā beš-te e saran-ma tapōs kī “having gone, I will make inquiry from this girl” (III, 28).

84. Another immutable Pronominal Adjective is ā “this, that” (Biddulph āga<sup>1</sup> “this”). Examples are: ā māš mē pō-ē bana-dū “this man says to this boy” (I, 25); ā pō “that boy (says, went, came)” (I, 41, 45, 48, 50; so II, 28); ā pō na pō-šat “that boy was not drinking” (II, 18); ā māš nigāt “that man went out” (III, 31); ā Sulaimānik gā “that Sulaimānik went” (III, 48).

For the Plural, we have:—ā duyimo sē-dē langī “these two crossed by a bridge” (II, 12).

In the original manuscript this word is sometimes translated “this”, and sometimes “that”. The latter seems to be the correct meaning, although Biddulph gives he and aga for "this", and tiya and paga for "that".

It will be observed that all the above examples are in the Nominative case. I have no information as to whether ā is used in other cases.

85. The Pronominal Adjective mē (variants mē, mā) is sometimes translated "this", and sometimes "that". An examination of its use shows that it is clearly a Proximate Demonstrative, and should be translated by "this". In the specimens it is not used with a noun which is the subject of a verb, but is twice used with the object of a transitive verb in a tense formed from the past participle. It is also used in agreement with a noun in the Accusative, but occurs most often in agreement with a noun in some Oblique Case. Its use with the plural is a matter of doubt, and will be separately considered in § 94. Examples are:—

86. With the Object of a Transitive Verb in a Tense derived from the Past Participle.—mē pō ti šēχ nū "that disciple took away this boy" (II, 23); Sulaimānike mē cai cinū "Sulaimānik cut this cliff" (III, 59).

87. With Singular Accusative.—mē saren ā gina-dū "I am taking this girl" (III, 25); mē saran buā "look ye at this girl!" (III, 31); mē Sulaimānik na mā "do not kill this Sulaimānik!" (III, 35); mē cai cin "cut this cliff!" (III, 58).

88. With Singular Agentive.—mē pōē tapōs kī "this boy made inquiry" (I, 24).

89. With Singular Oblique Form.—mī Sulaimānike sāt rabar kī "he made a fight with this Sulaimānik" (III, 3).

90. With Singular Dative.—mō bana-dū mē pō-gē "we say to this boy" (I, 33); dād mē watan-gē āp "the ancestor came to this country" (II, 1, 7); tu mē Bihū-ge yāp nigāl "excavate thou a canal to this Bihun" (III, 51).

91. With Singular Ablative.—mē xān-ma tapōs kī "he made inquiry from this Khān" (I, 5); mē māš-ma tapōs kī

“he made inquiry from this man” (I, 24); mē Tōwāl-miā sē māliyā neyu-dut “he was taking taxes from this Tōrwāl” (II, 5); ā maš mē šira nigāt “that man went out from this house” (III, 31).

92. With Singular Genitive.—mē gām-si xalak “the people of this village” (I, 30); mē pō-si šū “the sister of this boy” (I, 44); mē mās-sē “of this man” (I, 52); mē xān-sē chī muī “the wife of this Khān died” (I, 53); mī Nariā-si dād mī Jebēya-si dād-ke banū, “mē watan-si mā-o-chī šerikat hī” “the ancestor of this Narer said to the ancestor of this Jaber, ‘let there be division of (i.e. between) me and thee of this country’” (II, 8); mī Jabēya-si dād “the ancestor of this Jaber” (II, 9, cf. 16); mē pō-si nām “the name of this boy” (II, 26); mē kām-si Imām “the Imām of this tribe” (II, 50); mē Sulaimānik-si saran “the daughter of this Sulaimānik” (III, 23); mē saran-si kan-de did “shot this girl with an arrow” (§ 37) (III, 30); mē ghō-si umu “the age of this horse” (L. 221).

93. With Singular Locative.—mē manjlas-mē “in this entertainment” (I, 21); mī watan-mī (II, 10); mē watan-mī (III, 46) “in this country”; sē mē saran-žet pašat “they quarrelled over this girl” (III, 24).

94. With Plural.—No certain instance occurs, but I believe that with plural nouns mē takes the form miā or miyā, and that it appears in miā šālmī pāyis-ke de (L. 234), which is given as a translation of “give this rupee to him”. I think that the translator has mistaken “this” for “these” and that miā šālmī really means “these rupees”. Compare tiyā, the plural of tē (§ 96).

95. The origin of this pronoun must be sought in the Avesta ima- (cf. Waḫī yem, Sarikoli yam “this”). We may also compare the Veron m-iš, and Khōwār hamu “his”. In the plural there are (beside other more doubtful forms) Gawarbatī eme, Veron mū “they”.

96. From the Aryan Pronominal base ta- "he, she, it, that", we have the following forms :—

	Singular.	Plural.
Nom.	tē , (Biddulph) tiya .	tiyā .
Ag.	tī , te .	tihē .
Acc.	(Bid.) tes .	tihā , (Bid.) tiyā .
Obl.	te , (? Gen.) tisi , (Bid.) tes .	(Bid.) tiya .
Dat.	tes-kē (variant tēs-kē ).	(Bid.) tiya-ke .
Abl.	tes-ma , (Bid.) tez-ma .	(Bid.) tiya-ma .
Gen.	tesi (variants tesē , tisi , tisē , tasi ) (Bid.) tissa .	ti-hun (variant tiyun ), (Bid.) tiyasa .

Examples are :—

97. Singular Nominative.—tē mō-ma tapōs kōnin "he may make inquiry from us" (I, 37). In the Nominative the pronoun sē (§ 117) is more usual than tē.

Object of a Transitive Verb in a Tense derived from the Past Participle.—rajjāna tē dīt "the queen saw him" (III, 49); tes Musulmān kī "(he) made him a Musalmān" (II, 47). In the latter example, tes is in the Oblique Form in Bhāvē prayōga.

98. Singular Agentive.—tī būda "he saw" (II, 25); te si Semū watana haṣat "he drove that Semū from the country" (III, 3).

99. Singular Oblique Form.—te-set mukadima kī "made a quarrel with him" (II, 6); saranē tisi-sāt aṣī "girls were with her" (III, 17). In the latter, however, tisi is really a Genitive governed by sāt (§ 35).

100. Singular Dative.—mē tanū šū tēs-kē na dīt "I did not give my sister to him" (I, 34); tes-ki mubārakī dē "give congratulation to him" (I, 36); tes-ke bana-dū "says to him" (II, 10, 37, 40); tes-ke kalimā bayān kī "recited the creed to him" (II, 36, 39); tes-ke Bāba duwā kī "the Bābā made a benediction (i.e. grant) to him" (II, 42, 45); tes-ke šulan dīt "gave a curse to him" (i.e. cursed him) (II, 48).

Singular Ablative.—tes-ma gām ṭin kī “the village was taken (? subdued) from him” (III, 16).

101. Singular Genitive.—tasi šū gā “his sister went” (I, 28); tesē chī ruksat kī “(he) let his wife depart” (I, 51); tisē dērā-mī b<sup>i</sup>hī “let us sit in his house” (I, 52); tisi dvāś puś aśī “he had twelve sons” (II, 4); tesī yai-yū-bāp kufār aśī “his mother and father were Kāfirs” (II, 17); tisi ṭin bēḍū šū “he was seated below it” (§ 35) (II, 32); tisi dūyi bhā āp “his second brother came” (II, 39); tisi cui bhā wat “his third brother arrived” (II, 43); tisi aulād āḫūnzāda thī “his descendants are Ākhūnzādas (II, 51); tesī e duśman aśū . . . tesī nām Semū “he had an enemy . . . his name (was) Semū” (III, 1, 2); tesī e saraṇ aśī “he had a daughter” (III, 17).

102. Plural Nominative.—tiyā kuḍī “they will beat” (L. 200).

103. Plural Agentive.—tihē mē Sulaimānik-si saraṇ ḍiṭ “they saw the daughter of this Sulaimānik” (III, 23).

104. Plural Accusative.—mō tihā Musulmān keī “let us make them Musalmāns” (II, 29).

105. Plural Genitive.—egī ti-hun “one of them” (I, 16); ti-hun dērā “their house” (I, 17); ti-hun hujrā-mē “in their guest-room” (I, 18); ti-hun cōthum bhā aśū “they had a fourth brother” (II, 46). In L. 30, 31, we find tiyun instead of ti-hun. The Oblique Plural being tiya, the full form of the genitive was without doubt tiya-hun, of which both ti-hun and tiyun are contractions.

106. With the termination hun of the Genitive Plural, we may compare the Kaśmīrī hond“, as in ti-hond“ “of them”.

107. No instance has been noted of the adjectival use of this pronoun with a noun in the Nominative Singular. With every other singular case it has the immutable form tē (variants te, ti). In the one instance in which it is found in agreement with a plural noun (in the Accusative case), as we might expect, it takes the form tiyā. Examples are :—

108. With the Object of a Transitive Verb in a Tense derived from the Past Participle.—te dērā janū “(she) cleaned that house” (I, 28); tē saran māil dīt “(they) saw that girl killed” (III, 32); Sulaimānige tē yāp nigālī “Sulaimānik excavated that canal” (III, 54); tē rājgana Purangām-ge wālī “he brought that queen to Puran-gām” (III, 56).

109. With Singular Agentive.—ti māš hat-mē sitār gin-thū “that man has taken a guitar in his hand” (I, 4); tē jumāldār bī mēlī bāt banī “that headman again said the same word” (I, 35); tē xān tesē chī ruksat kī “that Khān let his wife depart” (I, 51); tē Kufār-miā pade-ge šeyat “(they) were driven backwards from that Kāfir” (II, 13; similarly 15); mē pō ti šēx nū “that disciple took away this boy” (II, 23); tē Semū tē xalak-ke arzī kī “that Semū made request to that people” (III, 5); te māš mē saran-si kan-de dīd “that man shot this girl (§ 37) with an arrow” (III, 30); tē rājgana tē dīt “that queen saw him” (III, 49); tē rājgana Sulaimānige gin “that queen took Sulaimānik” (Bhāvē prayōga) (III, 55).

110. With Singular Accusative.—Sulaimānik te jabal gin-de Semū-si šā-si dīd “Sulaimānik, having taken that pickaxe, hit Semū’s head” (§ 37) (III, 44).

111. With Singular Instrumental.—ā te yamē-dē yamjān hō-thū “I have become worried owing to that trouble” (I, 55).

112. With Singular Dative.—mō duyimo te Kufār-ke e hūr “let us two, for the sake of that Kāfir become one” (II, 11); tē xalak-ke “for that people” (III, 5, 6); Sulaimānike tē māš-ke banū “Sulaimānik said to that man” (III, 12); ā Sulaimānik te Bihū-ge gā “that Sulaimānik went to that Bihun” (III, 48); tē rājgana-ye bana-dū “he says to that queen” (III, 50).

113. With Singular Genitive.—ā pō gā te xān-sē watan-gē, tē xān-sē malāz hō “that boy went to that Khān’s country, he became that Khān’s guest” (I, 46); te saran-si kan-ke gā “he went to the neighbourhood of (i.e. near) that girl” (III, 29).

114. With Singular Locative.—ti Tōwāl-mē “in that Tōrwal” (II, 2); tē watan-mī “in that country” (III, 8); sē tē rājgana-žet mayin hū “he became in love on (i.e. with) that queen” (III, 49).

115. With Singular Oblique.—te Kufār-sāth “with that Kāfir” (II, 12).

116. With Plural Accusative.—tiyā šālmī pāyis-kējā gin “take those rupees from him” (L. 235).

117. The Aryan pronominal base sa- appears under the immutable form sē (sometimes written sī, seh) “he, she, it, that”. As a pronoun, it has been noted only in the Nominative case, Singular and Plural. It therefore serves as an alternative, and more usual, form of the Nominative of the Pronoun tē (§ 97). So also, as a Pronominal Adjective, it is used only with a noun in the Nominative Singular or Plural. Under any circumstances it does not change for gender or number. Examples are:—

118. Singular Nominative.—sē mī tarbūr ašū “he was my paternal cousin” (I, 17); sē bana-dū “he says” (I, 22; II, 35, 38, etc.; III, 28, 52); sē cir zālim ašū “he was very powerful” (II, 4); sē māliyā neyu-dut “he was taking taxes” (II, 5); sē buzurg ašū “he was a saint” (II, 17); sē til šit hū “he then became aware” (II, 19); sē tanū yai-sī ciš na pō-dāi “he does not drink his mother’s breast” (II, 21); sē Musulmān hū “he became a Musalmān” (II, 36); sē watan-sī wazīr hū “he became Wazīr of the country” (II, 42); sē širē pām dugū-dut, sē mē lāda šit na ašī “she was weaving wool in the house, she was now aware of this fight” (III, 18, 19); sē tē rājgana-žet mayin hū “he became in love over (i.e. with) that queen” (III, 49); sē bana-žī “she says” (III, 51, 53).

119. Plural Nominative.—sē telā ugāt “they went away from there” (II, 30); sē ai Gurnāl-gē “they came to Gurunai” (III, 10); sē mē saran-žet pašat “they quarrelled over this girl” (III, 24).

120. As a Pronominal Adjective we have:—with Singular Nominative: sē xān bana-dū “that Khān says” (I, 47); sē pō gani hū “that boy became big” (II, 27); sē rājgana xušāl hī “that queen became pleased” (III, 60). With Object of a Transitive Verb in a tense derived from the Past Participle: te si Semū watana hažat “he drove that Semū from the country” (III, 3).

121. With Plural Nominative.—sē daš bhai āban-gē derī “those ten cousins remained by themselves” (I, 31); sē xalak jama hī “those people (singular collective noun) became assembled” (III, 33).

122. One other Demonstrative Pronoun is pāē “he, that” which appears only in the List of Words. The Singular Nominative is pāē, which once occurs with the ka-suffix as paigā (Biddulph, paga),<sup>1</sup> in paigā thū “he is” (L. 158). The Singular Oblique Form is pāyis, and the Plural Nominative is paiyē. Examples are:—

123. Singular Nominative.—pāē tanū māl ciā-dū “he is grazing his own cattle” (L. 229). Singular Oblique: pāyis yora kuḍ “beat him well” (L. 236) (we have seen that verbs meaning “to beat” govern the Genitive, § 37). Here the Oblique Case is used, or, possibly, pāyis is a corruption of pāē-si; miā šālmī pāyis-ke de “give this rupee” (? these rupees, § 94) to him” (L. 234); tiyā šālmī pāyis-kējā gin “take those rupees from him” (L. 235). Plural Nominative: paiyē thū “they are” (L. 161); paiyē ašī “they were” (L. 167); paiyē kuḍē-dī “they strike” (L. 184).

124. As a Pronominal Adjective we have:—With Singular Nominative: pāē māš ghō-se jada thām-si tin b'hēth thū “that man is seated on a horse under a tree” (L. 230); With Object of a Transitive Verb in a tense derived from the Past Participle: pāē cīz tā kis-kējā gin-thū “from whom did you buy that thing?” (L. 240).

125. With Singular Genitive.—mē pižī-si pūc bēbā kī-dū pāē māš-si šū-sed “the son of my uncle has made a marriage with his sister" (L. 225); pāē māś-se pūc me cir midē-dē kūdū-dū "I have beaten that man's son with many stripes" (L. 228); pāē šai-se kīmat "the price of that thing" (L. 232).

126. With Singular Locative.—mī bāp pāē liḍe širē hō-dū "my father lives in that small house" (L. 233).

127. In L. 231 the word pātē occurs twice as an oblique Pronominal Adjective. I am unable to explain the form. The sentence is pātē māś-se bhā pātē māś-si šū-kējā ucat thū "that man's brother is taller than that man's sister".

128. The nearest Dardic relations to this Pronoun are Drās Ṣiṇā pe-rō "he", and Ḍāh-Hanū Ṣiṇā phō "he". We may also compare the Syrian Gypsy pānjī "he". But the word can be more directly compared with the European Gypsy **pō* "self", Singular Oblique pes (compare Tōrwālī pāē, Singular Oblique, pāyis).

129. The word must be referred to the Skt. ātman- "self". This word also survives independently in the word tanū "own". In Prakrit ātmā becomes either appā or attā, and, similarly, in several Dardic languages, the tm of (ātman- is changed both to p and to t, with a slight distinction of meaning in each case. Thus, in Ksh. we have the two suffixes pān<sup>u</sup> and tān<sup>u</sup> (pōn<sup>u</sup>, tōn<sup>u</sup>), both indicating relationship. The suffix tān<sup>u</sup>, however, indicates a more intimate relationship than pān<sup>u</sup> (see Kaśmīraśabdāmṛta, iv, 63), as in māl'tān<sup>u</sup> "fatherhood", but vēsapān<sup>u</sup> "comradeship". On the other hand, the Ksh. for "self" is pāna. Similarly, in Tōrwālī, tanū is reserved for the reflexive possessive pronoun, and pāē for the demonstrative pronoun.

130. There is a Reflexive Pronoun aban (variant āban), meaning "self". It is immutable, but can take the termination ī (< ēva) for the sake of emphasis, as in abanī "(I, my, etc.) very self". Examples are:—

131. Singular Nominative, with emphatic ī:—ā abanī baže-dū "I am myself going" (I, 45). Singular Dative: saran tā āban-gē lehī "thou demandest the girl for thyself" (I, 39);

Tōwāl-mē aban-gē karwanda kī "he did cultivation for (him)self in Tōrwāl" (II, 2); aban-mē-gē lāt-ke jōr ku "make (thyself) ready for a fight for (thy)self (and) me" (III, 11). Plural Dative: sē daś bhāi āban-gē derī "those ten cousins remained for (i.e. by) themselves" (I, 31).

132. The origin of the word aban must again, like Ksh. pāna "self", be referred to the Sanskrit ātman-, through the Prakrit appaṇa-. In Dardic appaṇa- would become **apaṇa-*, and the intervocalic p would, in Tōrwālī, regularly become b (see § 3d).

133. The Reflexive Possessive Pronoun is tanū "own", immutable, and used like the Hindī apnā. Like that word it usually refers to the logical subject of the sentence. The following are examples of its use: tu baž, tanū dērā wadān kō "go thou, and set (thine) own house in order" (I, 25); tanū yai-ge tānū šī-ge banū "(he) said to (his) own mother and to (his) own sister" (I, 27); ē jamāldār tanū bhayā-gē bana-dū "this headman says to (his) own brothers" (I, 32); "tanū šū me-gē dū"; mē tanū šū tēs-kē na dīt . . . "ē tanū šū me-gē na dīt" "give to me (your) own sister"; I did not give (my) own sister to him . . . 'he did not give (his) own sister to me'" (I, 33-5); ā pō tanū šir-kē āp; tanū šī-yē baṇa-dū "this boy comes to (his) own house; he says to (his) own sister" (I, 42); tanū saran mē-gē dē "give to me (thine) own daughter" (I, 48); tanū širā jāma pewū "he sent clothes from (his) own house" (I, 50); tanū xānī cai gū "(he) abandoned (his) own Khānship" (I, 54); pade-ge tanū šir-ke ai "(they) came back-wards to (their) own house" (II, 15); ā pō tanū yai-si ciš na pō-šat "this boy was not drinking (his) own mother's breast" (II, 18, so 21); tē xalak-kē tanū yarak sabāt "(he) arranged (their) own jirga for that people (here, if my translation is right, tanū does not refer to the logical subject) (III, 6); tanū karmā-ye banū "(he) said to (his) own army" (III, 13); Purangām-ge tanū bādšāhī-ge wat "(she) came to Purangām for (her) own rule" (III, 60); pāē tanū māl khand-mē ciā-dū "(he) is grazing (his) own cattle on the hill-top" (L. 229).

134. This form is again to be compared with the Sanskrit (ā)tman-. For further particulars, see under pāē (§ 129).

135. No example of the Relative Pronoun has been noted. Probably, as in Šiṇā, when needed, the Persian ki is used.

136. Interrogative Pronouns.—The Animate Interrogative Pronoun is kām “who?” (L. 92). When used as a Pronominal Adjective, it has the form kāmē or kāme in the two instances in which it has been noted. These are hē kāmē māš gina-žī “which man does she take?” (III, 28); kāme māš-se pō te-kējā piyāj ye-dū “the son of what man comes behind thee?” (L. 239).

An Oblique Form of this Pronoun is kis (cf. Veron kese, Šiṇā kēse), as in pāē cīz tā kis-kējā gin thū “from whom didst thou buy that thing?” (L. 240).

137. With kām, we may compare the Tirāhī kāma and the Gārwi kum “who?”, the Ksh. Oblique Base kam-, and the Wai-alā Sing. Gen. kuma.

138. The Inanimate Interrogative Pronoun is ka (? kā) “what?” (L. 93), used both as a Pronoun and as a Pronominal Adjective. Examples are:—tu ka s<sup>a</sup>wāl kō-dū “what request dost thou make?” (I, 9); tu ka γame-de γam-jān hō-dū “owing to what trouble art thou worried?” (I, 11); ā mere ka cal keī “what device should I now do?” (I, 24); tā me-gē ka mubārakī (fem.) dīt “what congratulation didst thou give me?” (I, 38); tu ka nimā-dū “what dost thou wish?” (II, 37, 40); chī nām ka thū “what is thy name” (L. 220).

139. We have seen above that ka is used with mubārakī, a feminine noun. We have ke, instead of ka, used with a feminine noun in ke γora χušālī Xudā Pāk dī-cī “what good happiness has God, the Pure, given!” (I, 20). Here ke is used exclamatorily.

140. The origin of ka is the Avesta-Sanskrit base ka-. It appears under numerous related forms in nearly all the Dardic languages. Thus, Baṣgali kē, kai; Wai-alā kas; Khōwār kya; Kalāšā kā; Gawarbatī ki; Paṣai kō; Tirāhī ki; Gārwi kai; Kāsmīrī kyāh “what?” Šīnā has jēk “what?”, but also has kē “why?”

141. An Interrogative Pronoun of Quantity is kadak “how much? how many?” Examples are mē ghō-sī umu kadak cī (? chī) “how much is the age (fem.) of this horse?” (L. 221); mhēda Kaśmīr kadak dū thū “from here how much (masc.) distant is Kashmīr” (L. 222); chī bāp-si širē kadak pūc thī “how many (masc. pl.) sons are in thy father’s house?” (L. 223).

142. As related Dardic words, we may quote Wai-alā and Gārwi kiti, Gawarbatī kata, Šīnā of Dāh-Hanū katāk, Kāsmīrī kait-, and Maiyā katuk. As usual in Tōrwālī, intervocalic t has been softened to d (see § 3d.).

143. Indefinite Pronouns.—The only Indefinite Pronoun noted is the borrowed Arabic-Persian fulāna, which appears under the form filankē or filankai in the following:—ā filankai watan-sē xān-sē pušt thū “I am the descendant of the Khān of a certain country” (I, 12); filankē xān-sē saran “the daughter of a certain Khān” (I, 39, 43).

144.—Miscellaneous Pronominal Adverbs.

mēl “here” (cf. tel “there”), in mēl ti Tōwāl-mē aban-gē karwanda kī “here, in that Tōrwāl, he did cultivation for himself” (II, 2).

145. tīl “there”, in ai beš-te tīl nidā kao-dud “I, having gone there, was looking on” (I, 19); sē tīl šit hū “he there became aware” (II, 19).

tel “there” (cf. mēl “here”), in tel te Kufār-sāth lāt sabat “there (they) joined fight with that Kāfir” (II, 12).

telā “from there” (cf. mhēda “from here”), in sē telā ugāt “they went away from there” (II, 30). Compare telā pāš “after that” (II, 49; III, 47).

146. kēt “where?”, in tū kēt-si thū “of where art thou?” (I, 6).

147. talā "then" (? "from then"), in ā ta talā gina-ži "I (fem.) shall then take thee (when thou diggest a canal)" (III, 51).

148. mere, "now", in ā mere ka cal keī "what device should I do now?" (I, 24); mere tilai biži "now let us go, let us be off!" (I, 52).

149. miz "thus", in Semū-ye miz banū "to Semū they said thus" (III, 7).

150. kē (or, L. 94, kai) "why?" (cf. Šinā kē) in tu kē āp "why didst thou come?" (I, 47).

kiau "why?", and, hence, by a common Dardic idiom, "therefore," in kiau te-gē mubāraki-ye āp "therefore (we) came to thee for congratulation" (I, 40); ā kiau te-gē s'wāl kō-dū "therefore I make a request to thee" (I, 56).

151. The connection of the above with the corresponding pronouns is obvious.

CONJUGATION

152. Infinitive.—No instances of the Infinitive occur in the folktales. Biddulph gives a form ending in ōsa or ūsa, as in kudūsa "to strike". I can find no difference in meaning between the two terminations, and possibly the distinction is a mere matter of spelling. For the sake of completeness, I here give a list of these Infinitives taken from Biddulph's English-Tarwâlāk Vocabulary. It will be observed that one word, kowōsa or kowūsa "to eat", appears under both heads.

Infinitives in ōsa :—

abōsa "to arrive".

olōsa "to open".

cōsa "to let go".

hōsa "to be, become".

kōsa "to do".

žoš kowōsa (? žoš khowōsa) "to be angry" (cf. kowūsa, below).

lāmōsa "to swim".

porōsa "to break" (trans., cf.

wōsa "to dismount".

yōsa "to come".

Infinitives in ūsa :—

ucūsa "to take up" (cf. ušūsa , 2, below).	kowūsa (? khowūsa ) "to eat" (cf. žoš kowōsa , above).
amašūsa "to forget".	ligūsa "to write".
anūsa "to bring".	lekūsa "to count".
ušūsa , 1, "to enter" (Ksh. atsun ).	milūsa "to touch".
ušūsa , 2, "to rise, to stand" (cf. ucūsa , above).	mowūsa "to kill".
biginūsa "to sell".	maiγūsa "to die".
bajūsa "to go".	ba-ge nikūsa "to go out".
bujūsa "to hear".	neyūsa "to take away".
bandūsa "to order".	pugūsa "to blow".
banūsa "to say".	pergūsa "to move" (trans.).
birārūsa "to search for".	pūrūsa "to be broken" (cf. porōsa , above).
pad-ge būsa "to return".	pūsa "to drink".
būsa "to see".	pašūsa "to look at".
baiγūsa "to sit".	powūsa "to receive".
cujūsa "to learn".	pyūsa "to send".
cūjūsa "to teach".	šijūsa "to fly" (as a bird).
dyūsa "to give".	tālūsa "to throw".
cigān gālūsa "to shout".	tašūsa "eto creep".
ganūsa "to shut".	zucūsa "to grieve".
gašūsa "to take".	žigalūsa "to pull".
hasūsa "to laugh".	žujūsa "to overthrow".
kuγūsa (? khujūsa ) "to ask".	žingūsa "to weep".

153. Verb Substantive. Present. The Present tense of the Verb Substantive does not change for person, but does change for gender and number. The Masculine Singular is thū, and the Masculine Plural is thī. The Feminine in both numbers is noted as cī, which we should probably correct to chī. When employed as an Auxiliary Verb, it changes its form, and will be dealt with separately in §§ 157 ff. For the First and Second Persons Plural, there are no examples in the Folktales, but the List of Words gives thī for each.

The following examples are available for the other persons :—

Sing. Masc. 1 :—ā filankai watan-sē χān-sē pušt thū “ I am the descendant of the Khān of a certain country ” (I, 12) ;
ā Semū-se lāt-ke jōr thū “ I am ready for a fight of (i.e. with) Semū ” (III, 12).

Sing. Masc. 2 :—tū kēt-si thū “ of where art thou ? ” (I, 6) ;
tu yora māš thū “ thou art a good man ” (I, 56).

Sing. Masc. 3 :—mē-tē-gē kam thū “ there is business for me and thee ” (I, 6, similarly 7) ; chī nām ka thū “ what is thy name ” (L. 220) ; ujil ghō-si zīn širē thū “ the saddle of the white horse is in the house ” (L. 226) ; pāē māš ghō-se jada thām-si tin b'hēth thū “ that man is seated on a horse under that tree ” (L. 230) ; bhā šū-kējā ucat thū “ the brother is taller than the sister ” (L. 231).

Plur. Masc. 1 :—mō thī “ we are ” (L. 159).

Plur. Masc. 2 :—thō thī “ you are ” (L. 160).

Plur. Masc 3 :—mī yai ū bāp kāfir thī “ my mother and father are unbelievers ” (II, 29) ; tisi aulād āχūnzāda thī “ his descendants are Ākhūnzādas ” (II, 51) ; chī bāp-si širē kadak pūc thī “ how many sons are there in thy father's house ? ” (L. 223) ; pāē šai-se kīmat dū šālmī ō ar thī “ two and a half rupees are the price of that thing ” (L. 232).

Sing. Fem 3 :—mē ghō-sī umu kadak cī (? chī) “ how much is the age of this horse ? ” (L. 221).

154. The fact that this tense does not change for person, and does change for gender and number, shows that it is of participial origin. It can therefore be compared with the Avesta stāta-, Sanskrit sthita-. The change of th to c (? ch) in the Feminine is, as in Kāśmīrī, due to epenthesis, **thya* becoming cī (? chī). In Ksh. ty regularly becomes ts. Thū is universal through all the Kōhistānī dialects, and reappears in the Kaṣṭawārī dialect of Kāśmīrī.

155. The Past Tense of the Verb Substantive is, Masculine ašū (occasional variant, āšū), Plural, ašī. The Feminine is ašī, for both Singular and Plural. When used as an Auxiliary

Verb, to form an Imperfect (§ 177) or Pluperfect. (§ 200), the initial a (or ā) is omitted, and the word is also liable to undergo other changes which will be discussed in §§ 160 ff. Examples of the use of this word as a Verb Substantive are:—

Sing. Masc. 1 :—ā lūt āsū “ I was small ” (I, 13).

Sing. Masc. 2 :—tū āsū “ thou wast ” (L. 162).

Sing. Masc. 3 :—egī ti-hun jumāldār āsū, sē mī tarbūr āsū, ti-hun dērā wadān āsū “ one of them was a head man, he was my cousin, their house was in order ” (I, 16, 17) ; mē manjlas-mē e māš āsū “ there was a man in this assembly ” (I, 21) ; Punkā-mī e Kupār āsū “ there was a Kāfir in Punkā ” (II, 3, similarly III, 2) ; sē cir zālīm āsū “ he was very powerful ” (II, 4) ; sē buzurg āsū “ he was a saint ” (II, 17) ; Pīr kīle-mē āsū “ he was in the village of Pīr ” (II, 19) ; ā pō dē-si kaman āsū “ that boy was a master of the share ” (II, 25) ; Tōwāl-si muš-ke e biū-si thām āsū “ in front of Tōrwāl there was a biū-tree (II, 31) ; pāji ti-hun cōthum bhā āsū “ afterwards there was their fourth brother ” (II, 46) ; tesī e dušman āsū “ of him there was an enemy ” (III, 1) ; tesī nām Semū āsū “ his name was Semū ” (III, 2) ; e māš andere cir hušā āsū “ one man among (them) was very intelligent ” (III, 27).

Sing. Fem. 3 :—ti-hun hujrā-mē majlas āsī “ there was an entertainment in their guest-room ” (I, 18) ; ē xušālī chi bāp-si āsī “ this pleasure was of thy father ” (I, 22) ; tesī e saran āsī “ there was a daughter of him ” (III, 17) ; sē mē lāda šit na āsī “ she was not aware of this fight ” (III, 19) ; telā pāš Bihū-mī e rājgana āsī “ after that there was a queen in Bihun ” (III, 47).

Plur. Masc. 1 :—mō āsī “ we were ” (L. 165).

Plur. Masc. 2 :—thō āsī “ you were ” (L. 166).

Plur. Masc. 3 :—mī daš bhāi āsī “ of me there were ten cousins (I, 15) ; tisi dvāš puš āsī “ of him there were twelve sons ” (II, 4) ; tesī yai-yū-bāp Kufār āsī “ his mother and father were Kāfirs (II, 17).

Plur. Fem. 3 :—nūm-bīš saranē tisi-sāt āsī “ nine times twenty girls were with her ” (III, 17).

156. The fact that this tense (like thū) does not change for person, but does change for number and gender, shows that it is participial in origin. It must be referred to the Avesta šuta-, past participle of  $\sqrt{\text{śav-}}$ , šavaite, cf. Persian šudan. The initial a, which is dropped when the tense is used as an auxiliary, is perhaps a relic of the Old Persian, Avesta, and Sanskrit augment,<sup>1</sup> here improperly prefixed to a participle. The final ū of šū shows that it is a strong form, derived from *\*šutaka-*, not from the bare šuta-.

157. Auxiliary Verbs.—In most related languages, the unaltered Verb Substantive is employed as an Auxiliary Verb. In such cases, the Present of the Verb Substantive is used with the Present Participle, or with the Old Present, of the main verb to form a Periphrastic Present, as in the Hindi calā-hai or calē-hai "he goes". It is also used with the Past Participle of the main verb to form a Perfect, as in the Hindi calā-hai "he has gone". Similarly, the Past of the Verb Substantive forms an Imperfect and a Pluperfect, as in the Hindi calā-thā "he was going", and calā-thā "he had gone".

158. In Tōrwālī the case is different. The Present and Past of the Verb Substantive nearly always undergo certain changes when used as Auxiliary Verbs to make periphrastic tenses. The various forms employed are dū —with a Past, dut (variant, dud); šū or šat (variant šad); and nin or in. Of these dū means "is", and is the same word as thū, the change of th to d being due to the fact that nearly all the verbal forms to which it is appended end in vowels. The th accordingly becomes intervocalic, and, as explained in § 3*d*, is changed to d. Its Plural is dē, and its Feminine, Singular and Plural, is žē (variants jē and, under special circumstances, cē). Examples are bana-dū "he says"; bažē-dē "they go"; gina-žē "she takes"; hō-dū "he has become"; kē-jē

<sup>1</sup> The survival of the augment in Dardic was first pointed out by Dr. G. Morgenstierne on p. 71 of his Report on a Linguistic Mission to Afghanistan, and the subject is further developed by Professor Turner on pp. 538 ff. of vol. ix of the Bulletin of the School of Oriental Studies.

“she has been made”; and dī-cī (contracted from dīt-žī) “she has been given”. In the case of the Perfect tense; it sometimes happens that the Past Participle of the main verb ends in a consonant, and in such instances, the th is thū not intervocalic, and remains unaltered. An example is gin-thū “he has been taken”. Very rarely, thū remains unchanged even after a vowel. The only examples that I have noted are ā kuḍē-dū “I beat”, but tū kuḍē-thū “thou beatest” sē kuḍē-thū “he beats” (L. 179–181) and hō-thū “I have become” (I, 55), but hō-dū (II, 20). The plural forms given in the list have, however, dī, as in mō kuḍē-dī “we beat”.

The Past form of dū—dut (dud)—is used to make an Imperfect, as in kō-dut or kao-dud “(I, etc.) was doing”. I have not noted any certain case of dut making a Pluperfect (see § 178), but this tense is of rare occurrence, and nothing can be assumed from the fact that I have not found this form in the specimens.

Alongside of dut, we find šū very often used to make an Imperfect or a Pluperfect, as in mē kuḍē-šū “I was beating”; mē kudū-šū “I had beaten”. It is, of course, only ašū, the Past tense of the Verb Substantive, with the initial a omitted. Instead of šū, we sometimes find šat, regarding which, see below (§ 160).

The Auxiliary Verb, or termination, nin or in, will be discussed in §§ 170–1. It is used to make a Present, or Future.

159. Of the above Auxiliary Verbs, the origin of dū has been explained above. I think that there can be no doubt about dut being, at least in meaning, a Past form of dū. Its origin is, however, obscure. To me it seems probable that it has been formed from dū by false analogy. As we shall see (§ 196) many Past Participles end in t, and dut has been formed from dū, just as we have dīt “given”, beside dai, “he will give”. The pair (a)šū and šat “to be considered immediately, probably helped the adoption of the false analogy.

160. The word šat (variant, šad) is equivalent in meaning to (a)šū, and is used alongside of šū and dut to form an

Imperfect, as in pō-šat, he was drinking (II, 18). It also appears once as forming a Pluperfect, in banu-šat "had been said" (II, 27). I would suggest that this šat is a corruption of **šut*, on the analogy of Past Participles such as hažat "driven out", pašat "quarrelled", sabat "arranged", šeyat "driven back", and others in -at given in § 196. In this case it would, like šū be derived from the Avesta šuta- "gone" (§ 156), Persian, šud. Thus šū and šat would both be forms of the same word, one of which had originally the ka- suffix, with consequent elision of the t, while the other had no ka- suffix and has preserved the t. An alternative origin has been suggested to me by a friend. He would derive šat from the Sanskrit aśayat "he was lying". Phonetically, this is quite possible, but it would necessitate denial of the connection between šat and šū, that seems to me to be almost certain.

161. It may be added here that Biddulph, in his account of "Torwâlâk" grammar, gives a short list of conjugational forms. Among these, he gives a Present Participle ending in dūt, as in kùdūdoot "striking". There is nothing like this in Sir Aurel Stein's specimens. In his List, Sir Aurel gives kudunki "striking", which is evidently based on the Paštō Present Participle ending in ūnkai. In the Folktales, dut appears only as an Auxiliary Verb making the Imperfect tense (§ 178).

162. Future (Old Present).—As in the case of other Dardic languages, and as in the case of the Eranian Ghalchah Languages immediately to their North, the Old Present has lost its original force, and is now used as a Future, or, occasionally, where we should use the Present Subjunctive. The first and third persons sometimes, also, are used in an Imperative sense. Every person of both numbers ends in ī, but there are also variant forms. From the  $\sqrt{ka-}$  "do", we have keī or kī for the first person singular and for the first person plural. Similarly, for the first person plural of the  $\sqrt{tāl-}$  "go", we have tilai or tīli. The  $\sqrt{ka-}$  also has kuwē for its third person singular, and the  $\sqrt{di}$ - "give", has its first person singular dai, and its first person plural dē. If the sense of the future has to be emphasized, the syllable yā can be added to any form. The following are examples of the use of this tense:—

163. Sing. 1 :—bižī, in ā bižī, "I will go" (I, 44).

dai, in ā te-gē dai "I will give (her) to thee" (I, 49).

ginī, in ā ta ginī "I will take thee" (III, 53).

keī, in ā mere ka cal keī "what device shall I now do?" (I, 24).

kī, in ā beš-te e saran-ma tapōs kī "I, having gone, will make enquiry from this girl" (III, 28).

kuḍī-yā, in ā kuḍī-yā "I shall beat" (L. 195).

nigālī, in yāp ā nigālī "I will cut a canal" (III, 52).

Sing. 2 :—kuḍī-yā, in tu kuḍī-yā "thou wilt beat" (L. 196).

Sing. 3 :—hī, in mē watan-si mā-o-chī šerīkat hī "let there be partition of this country of (i.e. between) me and thee" (II, 8).

kuḍī-yā, in sē kuḍī-yā "he will beat" (L. 197).

kuwē, in tā Xodā e-ga dū na kuwē "may God not make one two for thee" (II, 48); hē te-ge kasab kuwē "let him do work for thee" (III, 35).

Plur. 1 :—bižī, in yā, mō bižī "come ye, let us go" (I, 36); mere tilai, bižī "let us now go, let us be off" (I, 52); tīli, bižī "let us go, let us be off" (II, 28).

dē, in tes-ki mubārakī dē "let us give congratulation to him" (I, 36).

huī, in mō duyimo te Kufār-ke e huī "we two will become one for (the sake of) that Kāfir" (II, 11).

keī, in mō tihā Musulmān keī "let us make them Moslems" (II, 29).

kuḍī-yā, in mō kuḍī-yā "we shall beat" (L. 198).

tilai or tīli, see bižī above.

b'hī, in tisē dērā-mī b'hī "let us sit in his house" (I, 52).

Plur. 2 :—kuḍī-yā, in thō kuḍī-yā "you will beat" (L. 199).

Plur. 3 :—kuḍī-yā, in tiyā kuḍī-yā “they will beat” (L: 200).

164. As regards the forms ending in ī (including those in ē) it is evident that the third person singular has usurped the functions of both the other persons. The origin, of course, is the Avesta, -aiti, Sanskrit -ati. We may compare the Kāśmīrī māri, and the Munjānī dehi, both meaning “he will beat”. The form kuwē is formed from a base kō or ku, which we shall notice in the Imperative (§ 167) and in the Periphrastic Present (§ 173). Tilai and dai are, I suppose, merely older forms of tīli and dē respectively (-ati > -ai > -ē > -ī).

165. Imperative.—For the first and third persons of the Imperative, we have just seen that the corresponding persons of the Future (Old Present) are employed.

166. The second person singular of the Imperative is, as usual, the bare base. As in other Dardic languages, including Šiṇā and Tirāhī, the second person plural is formed by adding a or ā. Examples of this tense are :—

167. Sing. 2 :—baž, in tu baž tanū dērā “go thou to thine own house” (I, 25); ne baž “do not go” (I, 44, masc.; 45, fem.); mē kējā mūj baž “walk before me” (L. 238).

cin, in mē cai cin “cut thou this cliff” (III, 58).

dē, or (? ḍū), in tanū šū me-gē dū “give thine own sister to me” (I, 33). Here dū is perhaps a slip for dē due to the presence of bana-dū immediately preceding in the passage); tanū saran mē-gē dē “give thine own daughter to me” (I, 48); miā šālmī pāyis-ke de “give this rupee (? these rupees, § 94) to him” (L. 234).

gan, in khē-de gan “bind (him) with a rope” (L. 236).

gin, in mā gin “take me” (III, 50); tiyā šālmī pāyis-kējā gin “take those rupees from him” (L. 235).

hō, in iri hō “stand” (i.e. become standing) (L. 82).

kō or ku, in tanū dērā wadān kō “make thine own house in order " (I, 25); mē-ye kalimā bayān kō "recite the creed to me" (II, 35); mē-ge ṭubak-si duwā kō "make to me the favour (i.e. the gift) of a rifle" (II, 44); aban-mē-gē lāt-ke jōr ku "for yourself and me make ready for a fight" (III, 11).

kuḍ, in pāyis yora kuḍ "beat him well" (L. 236). A variant of this word is kuṭh (L. 81, 175). See § 3e.

mā, in mē Sulaimānik na mā "do not kill this Sulaimānik" (III, 35).

mō "die" (L. 83).

nigāl or nīgal, in tu mē Bihū-ge yāp nigāl "excavate a canal to this Bihun" (III, 51); kūṭ-mā ū nīgal "draw water from the well" (L. 237).

pai, in tu beš-te me-gē jāma pai "do thou, having gone, send clothes to me" (I, 49).

sabā, in payim dīšē pan sabā "prepare thou a road on the other side" (III, 37). Here the final ā is part of the base.

thā, in ghō-si pīḍ-jada zīn thā "put thou the saddle on the horse's back" (L. 227). Here also the ā is part of the base.

tīl "go thou" (L. 77).

yē "come thou" (L. 80).

Plur. 2:—baža, buža, or boža, in buža "go ye" (I, 27); to baža "go ye" (I, 41); Bihū-ge boža "go ye to Bihun" (III, 13).

buā, in mē saran buā "inspect ye this girl" (III, 31).

janā, in mī dērā janā "clean ye my house" (I, 27).

kuwa, in mē-sāt lāt kuwa "together with me make a fight" (III, 5); to lāt na kuwa "do not ye make a fight" (III, 28).

tīla, in tīla rabar-ke "go ye to the fight" (III, 13).

yā, in yā, mō bana-dū "come ye, we say" (I, 33); yā, mō bižē "come ye, we will go" (I, 36).

168. Periphrastic Present.—This is formed by adding a present form of the Auxiliary Verb to an abraded form of the Future (Old Present). The same procedure is followed in Šinā where šidēn "he strikes", is a contraction of the Future (Old Present) šidē with han "he is". In Tōrwālī, the Future (Old Present), for all persons ends in ē, as in kuḍē

"I, thou, he, etc. will strike". In the Periphrastic Present, this i is weakened to ē or a, and to this the Auxiliary dū (see § 158) is added as the Auxiliary. Sometimes nin or in (see below, §§ 169, 170, 176) is used instead of dū. When the more usual form with dū is employed, we get forms such as kudē-dū "I, thou, or he strike, strikest, or strikes"; gina-dū "I, thou, or he take, takest, or takes". The plural masculine of dū is dī, so that we get kudē-dī "we, you, or they strike." The feminine in both numbers of dū is zī so that we get kudē-zī "I, thou, she, we, you, or they (all feminine) strike, etc."

Properly speaking, this tense has a present force, but in cases like bana-dū "he says", it is used as a Historical Present, and may be translated "he said", as was frequently done in the original manuscript supplied by Sir Aurel Stein. As the tense is certainly a Present, I have not scrupled in each case to alter this to "he says". Sometimes this tense may even have the power of an immediate Future, as we say "I am going", when we mean "I shall go immediately".

169. Besides the usual Present made with dū, we occasionally find another Present made with the Auxiliary nin or in. As we shall see, the latter form seems to be used only when the verbal base ends itself in n, so that we are justified in assuming that the real form of the auxiliary is nin. Thus, we have mā-nin "they will kill", but gin-in "we shall take". Although, for the reasons given in the next section, I provisionally class this tense as a Present, in the few examples available (§ 176) it seems to be mainly used with a Future force, and Biddulph, in his grammatical sketch of Torwâlāk, gives "kūdnin", as the regular Future, making no mention of the Future (Old Present) described above in §§ 162 ff.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> I may here mention that Biddulph distinguishes between a masculine, kūdnin, and a feminine kūdñin. He makes a similar distinction in regard to the ordinary Present with dū. He gives a masculine kūdādoo (i.e. kūda-dū), and a feminine kūdūdjī (i.e. kūdā-zī), but I have failed to find any trace of such a distinction in the present texts. Moreover, as the verbal base, kudē or kūda, is almost certainly derived from the Old Present, and is not participial, I do not see how it can possibly change for gender.

170. The origin of this auxiliary form, nin, is to me a matter of doubt. I am inclined to suggest that the termination may originally have been that of the third person plural, and we can then connect forms such as Biddulph's kuḍnin, with the Šinā forms, such as the 3rd person plural šidenen "they beat", which is a compound of the Future (Old Present) of that language (Plur. 3, šiden), with the auxiliary verb han "they are". If this is correct, kuḍnin should be a compound of a lost **kuden* "they will beat", with a Törwālī form corresponding to the Šinā han, which has now fallen out of use as a separate word.

171. Examples of the Present with dū are :—

Sing. Masc. 1 :—baže-dū, in ā abanī baže-dū "I am going" (i.e. will go) myself" (I, 45).

gina-dū, in mē saram ā gina-dū "I take (i.e. will take) this girl" (III, 25).

kō-dū,<sup>1</sup> in ā te-kējā s<sup>a</sup>wāl kō-dū "I am making a request from thee" (I, 8, 56); ā te-gē du žāt majlis kō-dū "I make (i.e. will make) an entertainment for thee for two nights" (I, 10); te-sād maškulā kō-dū "I am making business (i.e. talk) with thee" (I, 56); ā te-sāt šerikat na kō-dū "I am not making sharing with thee" (II, 9).

kuḍē-dū, in ā kuḍē-dū "I beat" (L. 179).

mā-dū, in ā mē Sulaimānik mā-dū, "I will kill this Sulaimānik" (III, 34).

nimā-dū, in ā te-kējā xānī nimā-dū "I wish for a Khānship from thee" (II, 38); ā wazīrī nimā-dū "I wish for Wazīrship" (II, 41).

Sing. Fem. 1 :—gina-žī, in ā ta talā gina-žī "I will then take thee" (III, 51).

<sup>1</sup> This is irregular, here, and also elsewhere in this tense. The Future (Old Present) is keī or kī (§ 163), and the Imperative is kō or ku (§ 167). The Future (Old Present) Sing. 3 is kuwē (§ 163), and is an exceptional form used as an Imperative. Cf. Imperative Plur. 2 kuwa (§ 167). See also § 164.

172. Sing. Masc. 2 :—bažē-dū, in tū bažē-dū “thou goest” (L. 206).

hō-dū, in tu ka γame-de γamjān hō-dū “by what trouble art thou becoming troubled?” (I, 11).

kō-dū, in tu ka s<sup>a</sup>wāl kō-dū “what request dost thou make?” (I, 9).

nīmā-dū, in tu ka nīmā-dū “what dost thou wish?” (II, 37, 40).

According to L. 180, “thou beatest” is tū kuḍē-thū, in which thū is used instead of dū. This is exceptional, see § 158.

173. Sing. Masc. 3 :—bana-dū “he says” (I, 7, 8, 9, 10, et passim). As stated above, this is throughout used as a Historical Present.

baže-dū, in Šāh Zamān Xān Mingaore-ye baže-dū “Shāh Zamān Khān goes (i.e. went) to Mingaora” (I, 1); sē bažē-dū “he goes” (L. 207).

ciā-dū, in pāē tanū māl khand-mē ciā-dū “he is grazing cattle on the hill-top” (L. 229).

hō-dū, in mī bāp pāē liḍe širē hō-dū “my father is being (i.e. lives) in that small house” (L. 233).

kuḍē-thū, in sē kuḍē-thū “he beats” (L. 181). See above, under “thou beatest”, and § 158, pō-dū, in sē tanū yai-si ciš na pō-dū “he does not drink (from) his mother’s breast” (II, 21).

ye-dū, in ek dui-sāt jōr ne ye-dū “one does not come (to) agreement with the other” (III, 26); kāme mās-se pō te-kejā piyāj ye-dū “the son of what man comes behind thee?” (L. 239).

174. Sing. Fem. 3 :—bane-žī, in mē pō-si šū bane-žī “this boy’s sister says” (Historical Present) (I, 44); sē bana-žī “she says” (id.) (III, 51, 53); rājgana Sulaimānik-ke bana-žī “the queen says (id.) to Sulaimānik” (III, 58).

gina-žī, in hē kāmē mās gina-žī “which man does she take?” (III, 28).

175. Plur. Masc. 1 :—bana-dū (? bana-dī), in yā, mō bana-dū (? bana-dī) mē pō-gē “come ye, we (shall) say to that boy” (I, 33).

bažē-dī, in mō bažē-dī “we go” (L. 208).

kuḍē-dī, in mō kuḍē-dī “we beat” (L. 182).

Plur. Masc. 2 :—bažē-dī, in thō bažē-dī “you go” (L. 209).

kuḍē-dī, in thō kuḍē-dī “you beat” (L. 183).

Plur. Masc. 3 :—bažē-dī, in ē bažē-dī “they go” (L. 210).

kuḍē-dī, in paiyē kuḍē-dī “they beat” (L. 184).

176. Examples of the Present with nin or in are :—

Sing. Masc. 1 :—hō-nin, in mē hō-nin “I may be” (L. 172)

Sing. Masc. 3 :—ban-in, in ban-in, “tā me-gē ka mubārakī dit” “(if) he may say, ‘what congratulations are given by thee to me?’” (I, 38).

kō-nin, in tē mō-ma tapōs kō-nin “he may make a question from (i.e. inquire from) us” (I, 37).

Plur. Masc. 1 :—ban-in, in mō ban-in “we may say” (I, 39).

gin-in, in besyāt mōi gin-in “it is we who shall take loot” (III, 8).

ya-nin (? yā-nin) in mōi te-sāt karmā ya-nin (? yā-nin) “it is we who shall come with thee as an army” (III, 7).

Plur. Masc. 3 :—mā-nin, in tu ne baž, tā mā-nin “do not thou go, they may kill thee” (I, 44).

177. Imperfect.—This is formed on the same lines as the Periphrastic Present, the Past tense, (a)šū, of the Verb Substantive, or the Past Auxiliary dut (dud) or šat (šad) (§ 158), being substituted for dū. As stated in § 155, the initial a of ašū has been omitted, so that, in the Imperfect, ašū becomes šū. Only one example of the Imperfect with šū has been noted. It is mē kuḍē-šū “I was beating” (L. 192).<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Biddulph gives an Imperfect kūdoosášoo (i.e. kuḍāsa-šū), with a feminine kūdūsáshī (i.e. kūḍāsa-ši). These are not borne out by the present texts, but may belong to the dialect of some Törwāl village other than those visited by Sir Aurel Stein. The form kūdoosá is also given by him as the Infinitive, see § 152.

178. Imperfects formed with dut (dud) are :—

dugū-dut, in sē širē pām dugū-dut “ she was weaving wool in the house ” (III, 18).

hō-dut, in ē manjlas thun hujrā-mē hō-dut “ this entertainment was becoming (i.e. used to be) in your house ” (I, 23).

kō-dut, kao-dud, in Sulaimānik Purangām-žet bādšāhī kō-dut “ Sulaimānik was doing rule over Purangām ” (III, 1) ;
ai beš-te til nidā kao-dud “ I, having gone there, was making inspection ” (I, 19).

neyu-dut, in sē māliyā neyu-dut “ he was taking taxes ” (II, 5). This is doubtful. It may perhaps be a pluperfect (§§ 191, 201).

179. Imperfects formed with šat (šad) are :—

diū-šad, in malāž-ge gīl diū-šad “ he was giving (i.e. continued to give) bread to guests ” (I, 29).

pō-šat, in ā pō tanū yai-si ciš na pō-šat ; lehir chal-si ciš pō-šat “ this boy was not drinking (i.e. used not to drink) his mother’s breast ; he was drinking the breast of a red goat ” (II, 18).

180. Past Tense.—The Past Participle, without any addition, is used for the Past tense. Past Participles appear under two forms, a strong (with original ka-suffix) and a weak. The strong forms end in a long vowel (ā, ū, or ō), and change for gender and number. Weak forms end in a consonant and do not change for gender or for number. It will be convenient to divide the examples into the two groups of Intransitive and Transitive verbs.

181. Intransitive Past Tense.—Here the Past Participle does not change for person. Only in the case of strong participles, does it change for gender and number. Thus :—

182. Sing. Masc. 1 :—gā (strong form), in ā gā filankē xān-sē saraṇ paš “ I went (i.e. I’m off) after the daughter of a certain Khān ” (I, 43 ; so L. 211).

hō (strong form), in ā šid hō, xušāl hō “ I became aware, I became (i.e. I am) happy ” (I, 40).

183. Sing. Masc. 2:—āp, in tu kē āp “why didst thou come?” (I, 47).

gā (strong form), in tū gā “thou wentest” (L. 212).

184. Sing. Masc. 3:—āp, in ē māž āp “a man arrived” (I, 3); ē pō pat-gē āp “this boy came back” (I, 26); ā pō tanū šir-kē āp “the boy came to his own house” (I, 42); dād mē watan-gē āp “the ancestor came to this country” (II, 1, 7); pāji tisi dui bhā āp “afterwards his second brother came” (II, 39); mūš-ke cai āp “a cliff came (i.e. appeared) in front” (III, 57).

bēth or b'hēth, or (strong form, cf. § 3e) bēdū, in ē pō andare bēth “this boy sat inside” (I, 29); tisi tin bēdū “he sat under it (sc. a tree)” (II, 32). Cf. pāē māš thām-si tin b'hēth thū “that man is seated under a tree” (L. 230).

diū (strong form), in pata-ge diū “he fled back” (III, 16); Sulaimānik diū “Sulaimānik escaped” (III, 45).

gā (strong form), in Ningōlī-se kac-ke gā “he went to the neighbourhood of Ningōlī” (I, 2); ā pō gā “that boy went” (I, 46); tanū xānī cai gā “he abandoned his Khānship” (I, 54); māš gā . . . te saran-si kan-ke gā “the man went . . . he went to the vicinity of that girl” (III, 29); Sulaimānik jabal hat-te ginu gā “Sulaimānik, taking a pickaxe in his hand, went” (III, 38); pata-g Semū-sie šir-ke gā “he went back to Srmū's house” (III, 39, so 45); melāštōp-te gā “he went for a visit” (III, 48).

gya (a variant of gā), in Sulaimānik-si karmā gya Bihū-ge “Sulaimānik's army went to Bihun” (III, 14).

hū or hō (both strong forms), in mī dērā kūtsā šat hū “my house (and) lane became ruined” (I, 14); ē xān lewānai hū “this Khān became mad” (I, 54); e pō paidā hū “a son became born” (II, 16); sē tūl šit hū “he there became aware” (II, 19); sē pō gani hū “that boy became big” (II, 27); sē Musulmān hū “he became a Musalmān” (II, 36, so 43, 49); se watan-si wazīr hū “he became Wazīr of the country” (II, 42); šerunke hū . . . Mayō-mī dērā hū “he became an exile (§ 203) . . . his home became in Mayō” (III, 4);

Semū cir xušāl hū "Semū became very glad" (III, 42);
sē.tē rājgana-žet mayin hū "he became in love with that queen" (III, 49).

tē xān-sē malāž hō "he became a guest of that Khān" (I, 46); cui kāl hō "the third year became" (II, 47).

It will be observed that the usual form is hū.

hut, in Sulaimānik hut "Sulaimānik slept" (III, 43).

lagū (strong form), in šir-ke lagū "he entered the house" (III, 29).

mū or mau (both strong forms), in mī bāp mū "my father died" (I, 13); Semū mau "Semū died" (III, 45).

nigāt, in ā māš mē šira nigāt "that man went out from this house" (III, 31).

ucit, in karmā ucit "the army arose" (III, 9).

wat, in awal-mē Xāna-si dād wat "First Khāna's ancestor arrived" (II, 34); pāji tisi cui bhā wat "afterwards his third brother arrived" (II, 43); Gurnāl-miā Semū-si karmā wat "Semū's army arrived from Gurnāl" (III, 14); payim diše-de wat "he arrived at the opposite side" (III, 56).

185. Sing Fem. 3:—gā (strong form. We should expect gī or gai), in tasi šū gā "his sister went" (I, 28).

hī (strong form), in na-tsāba derē zōg hī "there became an unexpected noise at the door" (III, 20); hē mē lāda šit hī "she became aware of this fight" (III, 21); ar žāt hī "it became half night (i.e. midnight)" (III, 43); mē watan-mī Sulaimānik-si bī pādšāhī hī "Sulaimānik's rule became again in this country" (III, 46, so 61); pan na hī "there was no road" (III, 57); sē rājgana xušāl hī "that queen became pleased" (III, 60).

mūi or māi (both strong forms), in mē xān-sē chī mūi "the wife of this Khān died" (I, 53); mē saran māi "this girl died" (III, 30). Cf. māil in tē saran māil dūt "they saw (that) this girl (had been) killed" (III, 32).

wat, in sē rājgana . . . Purangām-ge tanū bādšāhī-ge wat "that queen . . . came to Purangām for her own rule" (III, 60).

186. Plur. Masc. 1 :—āp, in kiau te-gē mubāraki-ye āp “therefore we came to thee for congratulation” (I, 40).

gai (strong form), in mō gai “we went” (L. 214).

nigāt, in mō mē māš-sē puḫtuā nigāt “we are gone out from enmity of (i.e. with) this man” (I, 52).

187. Plur. Masc. 2 :—gai (strong form), in thō gai “you went” (L. 215).

188. Plur. Masc. 3 :—ai (strong form), in pade-ge tanū šir-ke ai “they came back to their own house” (II, 15); sē ai Gurnāl-gē “they came to Gurnāl” (III, 10); Mayō-si gan gan māš ai “a number of big men of Mayō came” (III, 22).

āp, in mē gām-si ḫalak bud ēs paš āp “after this many people of this village came” (I, 30).

derī (strong form), in sē daš bhāi āban-gē derī “those ten cousins remained by themselves” (I, 31).

gai (strong form), in dō kāl gai “two years went (i.e. passed)” (II, 47); hē gai “these (men) went” (III, 32); tiyā gai “they went” (L. 216).

huī, hōi, or hī (all strong forms), in diūmo (? duimo, § 56) ek-di-je (§ 56) erī huī “both, one with the other, became halted” (III, 15); derē erī hōi “they became halted at the door” (III, 22); sē ḫalak jama hī “those people became assembled” (III, 33).

langī (strong form), in sē-dē langī “they crossed by a bridge” (II, 12).

nurī (strong form), in hē pade-ge nurī “they returned back” (II, 14).

pašat, in sē mē saran-žet pašat “they quarrelled over this girl” (III, 24).

ugāt, in sē telā ugāt “they went away from there” (II, 30).

189. It is hardly necessary to point out that the strong forms in the above examples are derived from original participles, to which the ka-suffix has been added. So far as can be gathered from the above examples, the following changes for gender and number occur in the case of these strong forms :—

Sing. Masc.	Sing. Fem.	Plur. Masc.	Plur. Fem.
—	—	ai	—
—	—	derī	—
diū	—	—	—
hū, hō	hī	huī, hōi, hī	—
lagū	—	—	—
—	—	langī	—
mū, mau	muī, māī	—	—
—	—	nurī	—

For weak forms, we have āp, Masc. Sing., and Masc. Plur., and wat, Masc. and Fem. Sing.

190. Transitive Past Tense.—The following examples of the Transitive Past are not arranged according to the gender, number, and person of the subject. The arrangement must depend upon the gender and number of the object, as the construction is Passive, and the subject is necessarily in the Agentive case. Unfortunately, the gender, in the case of weak participles, cannot always be ascertained with certainty. So far as I could ascertain this, I have put the verbs with a feminine object separately, but, for want of my knowledge of their genders, some feminine forms may appear in the masculine lists.

191. Masc. Sing. Obj.—banū (strong form), in mē banū “I said” (I, 20); tanū yai-ge tanū šī-ge banū “he said to his own mother and to his own sister” (I, 27); dād-ke banū “he said to the ancestor” (II, 8, 9); Semū-ye miz banū “they said thus to Semū” (III, 7); Sulaimānik-kē banū “he said to Sulaimānik” (III, 11); Sulaimānike tē māš-ke banū “Sulaimānik said to that man” (III, 12); tanū karmā-ye banū “he said to his own army” (III, 13).

būda or būdā (strong form), in ti būda ā pō-si dē-si kaman ašū “he saw (that) that boy was a master of the share” (II, 25); būdā Semū hubil thū “he saw (that) Semū is asleep” (III, 43).

cinū (strong form), in te cai cinū “he cut the cliff” (III, 38); Sulaimānike mē cai cinū “Sulaimānik cut this cliff” (III, 59).

did, in Semū-si šā-si did " he hit Semū on the head " (III, 44).

dit, in tes-ke šulan dit " he gave a curse to him (i.e. he cursed him) " (II, 48); Sulaimānik gaš-te Semū-ye dit " having captured Sulaimānik, they gave him to Semū " (III, 33).

diṭ in tē rājgana tē diṭ " that queen saw him " (III, 49).

gin, in tē rājgana Sulaimānige gin " that queen took Sulaimānik (bhāvē prayōga) " (III, 55).

hažat, in te si Semū watana hažat " he drove that Semū from the country " (III, 3); tē Kufār hē hažat " they were driven away by that Kāfir " (II, 15).

janū (strong form), in te dērā janū " she cleaned the house " (I, 28).

kī (strong form), in sitār-sē māš mē xān-ma tapōs kī " the man of the guitar made inquiry from this Khān " (I, 5); Tōwāl-mē aban-gē karwanda kī " he did cultivation for himself in Tōrwāl " (II, 2); laṭ kī " they did fighting " (II, 14); kalimā bayān kī " he recited the creed " (II, 33, 36, 39); tes Musulmān kī " he made him a Moslem " (bhāvē prayōga) " (II, 47); mē kām-si Imām kī " (he) made him Imām of this tribe " (II, 50); mī Sulaimānike sāt rabaṭ kī " he made a fight with this Sulaimānik " (III, 3); tē watan-mī mōi lāt kī, mōi barai kī " we verily did fighting in that country, we verily made victory " (III, 8); Sulaimānike hukum kī " Sulaimānik made an order " (III, 13); lāt šuru kī " they began to do fighting " (III, 15); lāt-mi Sulaimānike baidāt kī . . . tes-ma gām ṭin kī " in the fight he made Sulaimānik defeated (bhāvē prayōga) . . . the village was captured from him " (III, 16); dadan-si ken-ta baṭhā kī " (he) made him seated by the side of the fireplace " (III, 42).

kuḏū (strong form), in mai kuḏū " I struck " (L. 185, and so on through the tense).

nū (strong form), in mē pō ti šēx nū " that Shekh took away this boy " (II, 23); Sulaimānik gaš-te nū " having captured Sulaimānik, they took him away " (III, 36). Perhaps neyu in neyu-dut (§ 178) is a variant of nū.

pewū, peyū, or piyū (all strong forms), in tanū širā jāma pewū "he sent a garment from his own house" (I, 50); Miā Kāsim Bāba tanū šēχ peyū "Miyān Kāsim Bābā sent his own Shēkh (= disciple)" (II, 22); Semū māš piyū "Semū sent a man" (III, 10).

sabāt, in tē xalak-kē tanū yarak sabāt "for those people their own tribal council was arranged" (III, 6); tel te Kufār-sāth lāt sabat "there they joined battle with that Kāfir" (II, 12).

thāu or thalū (both strong forms), in Miā Kāsim Bāba mē pō-si nām thāu "Miyān Kāsim Bābā put a name of (i.e. to) this boy" (II, 26); šen thalū "she placed a bed" (apparently an l-participle, § 195) (I, 28).

192. Masc. Plur. Obj. :—hažat, in tē Kufār hē hažat "that Kāfir drove them away" (II, 15).

kī (strong form), in lēb bāliχ barābar kī "she made right a cover (and) pillow" (I, 28).

šeyat, in tē Kufār-miā pade-ge šeyat "they were driven backwards from that Kāfir" (II, 13). Here the construction is purely passive.

193. Fem. Sing. Obj. :—banī (strong form), in tē jumāldār bī mēlī bāt banī "that head man again said the same word" (I, 35).

dīd, in tē māš mē saran-si kan-de dīd "that man struck this girl with an arrow" (III, 30). This is a doubtful case, as the feminine object is in the genitive (§ 37).

dīt, in mē tanū šū tēs-kē na dīt "I did not give my own sister to him" (I, 34); ē tanū šū me-gē na dīt "he did not give his own sister to me" (I, 35); tā me-gē ka mubārakī dīt "what congratulation did you give me" (I, 38).

dīt, in tihē mē Sulaimānik-si saran dīt "they saw the daughter of this Sulaimānik" (III, 23); saran māl dīt "they saw the girl (that she was) killed" (III, 32).

kambai (? strong form), in māliyā ne kambai "they did not (?) pay the tax" (II, 6). Sir Aurel Stein translates the word kambai by "stopped", but with a query. If the word is correct, it seems to mean "paid".

kī (strong form), in tē xān tesē chī ruksat kī "that Khān allowed his wife to go" (I, 51); Nariā-si dād te-set mukadima kī "the ancestor of Narēr made a quarrel with him" (II, 6); tes-ke Bāba duwā kī "to him the Bābā made a prayer (i.e. grant)" (II, 42, so 45); tē Semū tē xalak-kē arzī kī "that Semū made a request to those people" (III, 5).

lehī (strong form), in filankē xān-sē saran tā aban-gē lehī "thou askedst for thyself the daughter of a certain Khān" (I, 39).

nigālī (strong form), in Sulaimānige tē yāp nigālī "Sulaimānik excavated that canal" (III, 54).

sabat, in pan sabat " (he) prepared a road" (III, 38, 40, 41).

telī (strong form), in mī Jebēya-si dād sē telī "this ancestor of Jabēr broke the bridge" (II, 13).

wālī (strong form), in tē rājgana Purangām-ge wālī " (he) brought that queen to Purangām" (III, 56).

194. The following are the strong forms of Participles occurring in the above examples:—

Masc. Sing.	Fem. Sing.	Plur. Masc.
banū	—	—
būda, būdā	—	—
cinū	—	—
janū	—	—
kī	kī	kī
kuḍū	—	—
—	lehī	—
—	nigālī	—
nū, (? neyu)	—	—
pewū, peyū, piyū	—	—
thāu, thalū	—	—

The rest are all weak forms, and do not change for gender or number. See §§ 180, 189.

195. If I am right in looking upon thalū as a variant of thāu, we have here an example of the Dardic l-participle, which is also found in Šinā and other Dardic languages. The original sthāpitakah, would in the one case become **thāpiu*, and then thāvu, thāu. In the other case it would become **thāpidu*, **thāvilu* and then thalū (? thālū). The l is not the illa-suffix common in India, for, in Ṣiṇā, we find several pairs of participles such as uthido or uthilo "risen"; cādī or cālī "delivered of a child"; sīcīdo or sīcīlo "learnt", and so on, which show that we have here the change of d to l that is common in many Eranian languages. Another example of the l-participle is māl "killed" (III, 32). See -t > -d > -l, and -d > -l, in § 4.

196. The existence of this l-participle raises the question whether the original t of the Past Participle has been preserved in the case of any other verbs. This has certainly been the case in some verbs quoted in the foregoing lists, viz. hut < supta-; wat < avāpta- (cf. Ksh.  $\sqrt{wāt}$ - "arrive"); ucit < utksipta-; and dit < datta-. The participle dit (? dīth) is derived from dr̥ṣta-, and bēth from upaviṣta-. The  $\sqrt{di}$ - "give", in many Dardic languages also means "strike", and we are thus justified in looking upon did "struck", as a variant of datta- (cf. § 3d). In all these the final t originally formed part of a conjunct consonant, and its preservation offers no difficulties.

There are other Past Participles ending in t, of which the origin is not so manifest. These are ābāt (< āpita-) "brought"; haṣat "driven out"; nigāt (< nikāṣita-) "gone out"; paṣat "they quarrelled"; sabat or sabāt (< sambhārīta-) "arranged"; ṣeyat "driven back"; and ugāt (< udgāta-) "arose". In some of these, at least—ābāt, nigāt, sabāt, and ugāt—the single intervocalic t of the original has been preserved. Regarding the others, I must reserve my opinion till their derivations are established.

One word more. Three pure Past Participles must be added to the above. One is baidāt "defeated", and is used as a participle, and not as a Past tense in lāt-mi Sulaimānike baidāt kī "in the fight he made Sulaimānik defeated" (III, 16). Another is bathā "caused to be seated", in dadan-si ken-ta bathā kī "he made him seated near the fireplace"

(III, 42). The third is māil (< māritā) “killed”, in saran māil dīt “they saw the girl (that she was) killed” (III, 32).

197. Perfect Tense.—The Perfect is obtained by conjugating the Present tense of the Auxiliary Verb with the Past Participle of the principal verb. The Auxiliary Verb is thū, or, between vowels, usually dū (§ 158). The following are examples :—

198. Intransitive Perfect.—Sing. Masc. 1 :—hō-thū, in ā te yamē-dē yamjān hō-thū “I have become worried from that trouble” (I, 55).

Sing. Masc. 3 :—hō-dū, in Tōwāl-mī e pō paidā hō-dū “a boy has been born in Tōrwāl” (II, 20).

199. Transitive Perfect.—Masc. Sing. Obj. :—gin-thū, in tī māš hat-mē sitār gin-thū “that man has taken (i.e. held) a guitar in his hand” (I, 4); pāē cīz tā kis-kējā gin-thū ? gām-se dukāndār-kējā gin-thū “from whom hast thou taken (i.e. bought) that thing ? (I) have bought (it) from a shop-keeper of the village” (L. 240-1).

kī-dū, in mē pižī-si pūc bēbā kī-dū “the son of my uncle has made a marriage” (L. 225).

kūdū-dū, in pāē māš-se pūc mē cir miḍē-dē kūdū-dū “I have beaten that man’s son with many stripes” (L. 228).

Fem. Sing. Obj. :—dī-cī (for dīt-žī, § 158), in ke yora xušālī Xudā Pāk dī-cī “what good happiness has the Almighty given !” (I, 20).

Similarly (§ 158) the feminine of dū is žī, which appears as jī, in :—

kī-jī, in mē aj cir pand kī-jī “to-day I have made much travelling” (L. 224).

200. Pluperfect.—The Pluperfect is obtained by conjugating the Past tense of the Auxiliary Verb—(a)šū or šat (§ 158)—with the Past Participle of the principal verb. As in Indian and other Dardic dialects, the Pluperfect is often employed to indicate a Remote Past. Examples are :—

201. Masc. Sing. bēdū-šū (§ 3e), in tisi ʔin Miā Kāsim Bāba bēdū-šū “under it Miyān Kāsim Bābā was seated” (II, 32).

gā-šū, in tu gā-šū filankē ʔān-sē saran tā āban-gē lehī “thou hadst gone and asked for the daughter of a certain Khān for thyself” (I, 39).

kudū-šū, in mē kudū-šū “I had beaten” (L. 193).

banu-šat, in sē pō sabak banu-šat “that boy said (i.e. studied) (his) lesson” (II, 27).

neyu-dut (II, 5) is perhaps also a pluperfect (see § 178).

202. Conjunctive Participle.—A form corresponding to the Conjunctive Participle of Indian languages is formed by adding te, the postposition of the Instrumental, to a verbal noun similar to the present base. As in the Instrumental, after a vowel or nasal this te becomes de. Examples are :—

beš-te, in ai beš-te tił nidā kao-dud “I having gone there was doing looking on” (I, 19); tu beš-te me-gē jāma ʔai “do thou, having gone, send to me a garment” (I, 49); ā beš-te e saran-ma tapōs kī “I, having gone, will make inquiry from this girl” (III, 28); beš-te mē saran buā “having gone, look ye at this girl” (III, 31).

gaš-te, in Sulaimānik gaš-te Semū-ye dił “having captured Sulaimānik, they gave him to Semū” (III, 33); Sulaimānik gaš-te nū Kanbel-ge “having captured Sulaimānik, he took him away to Kanbel” (III, 36).

gin-de, in Sulaimānik te jabal gin-de Semū-si šā-si dił “Sulaimānik, having taken that pickaxe, struck Semū’s head” (§ 37) (III, 44).

203. Present Participle.—Two forms are given in the List of Words for the Present Participle. These are kudunki “beating” (L. 177), and bažunge “going” (L. 218). Both are evidently corruptions of the Paštō Noun of Agency in -ūnkai, and need not detain us further. In other Dard languages (e.g. Kāšmīrī), the Noun of Agency is frequently used as a Present Participle, and is so translated into Sanskrit by Paṇḍits.

INDECLINABLES

204. It will be convenient to consider together Adverbs and Postpositions, as the border line between the two classes is ill-defined. Omitting the Postpositions used to form cases, and described in §§ 23 ff., the following Adverbs and Postpositions have been noted :—

aj “to-day”, in mē aj cir pand kī-jī “I have walked a long way to-day” (L. 224).

andare, andere “inside, among”, in ē pō andare bēḥ “this boy sat inside (the house)” (I, 29); e māš andere cir hušā ašū “one man among (them) was very intelligent” (III, 27).

bā (L. 86) “up”, in Kalāma wa Mišku-si cālā-bā “down from Kalām up to the rock of Mishku” (III, 61).

bī “again”, in tē jumāldār bī mēlī bāt banī “that head man again said the same word” (I, 35); mē watan-mī Sulaimānik-si bī pādšāhī hī “Sulaimānik’s rule of this country again took place” (III, 46).

kac (? kaç) “near”, in Ningōlī-se kac-ke gā “he went to near Ningōlī” (I, 2).

kan, ken “near”, in te saran-si kan-ke gā “he went to near that girl” (III, 29); dadān-si ken-ta bathā kī “he made him seated near the fireplace” (III, 42).

niō “near” (L. 87).

mūj, muš, mūš, mūšā “before”, in mē kējā mūj baž “walk before me” (L. 238); Tōwāl-si muš-ke “in front of Tōrwāl (there is a tree)” (II, 31); mūš-ke cai āp “a cliff came in front” (III, 57); mūšā ē māš āp “a man came before him” (I, 3). Cf. mūš “first”, § 55.

pāji “afterwards”, piyāj (L. 91), paž “behind”, in pāji tisi duyī bhā āp “afterwards his second brother came” (II, 39, so 43, 46); kāme māš-se pō te-kējā piyāj ye-dū “the boy of what man comes behind you?” (L. 239). Cf. pāš.

pāš, paš “afterwards, later, after”, in telā pāš buḍ kām Musulmān hū “after then the whole tribe became Moslem” (II, 49); telā pāš Bihū-mī e rāggana ašī “after that time there was a queen in Bihun" (III, 47); mē gām-si xalak bud ēs paš āp "after this many people of this village came" (I, 30); ā gā filankē xān-sē saran paš "I am gone after (i.e. for) the daughter of a certain Khān" (I, 43). Cf. pāji.

pat-gē, pata-gē, pade-gē "backwards, back", in ē pō pat-gē āp "that boy went back (i.e. returned home)" (I, 26; so I, 50, but pade-gē); tē kufār-miā pade-ge šeyat "they were driven back from that Kāfir" (II, 13; similarly 14, 15); pata-ge diū "he fled backwards" (III, 16); Sulaimānik pata-ge Semū-si šir-ke gā "Sulaimānik went back to Semū's house" (III, 39).

sāt, sād, sāth "with", in te sād maškulā kō-dū "I am doing business (i.e. talk) with thee" (I, 56). Here the final t has apparently been softened to d before the following m. ā te-sāt šerikat na kō-dū "I do not make sharing with thee" (II, 9); tel te Kufār-sāth (? sāt) lāt sabat "there they joined fight with that Kāfir" (II, 12); mī Sulaimānike sāt rabar kī "he made a fight with this Sulaimānik" (III, 3); mē-sāt lāt kuwa "make ye fighting with me (i.e. on my side)" (III, 5); mōi te-sāt karmā yanin "we verily are going with thee (as) an army" (III, 7); Semū sāt panjam kālō karmā ucit "in the fifth year the army arose with Semū" (III, 9); nūm bīs saranē tisi sāt aši "nine (times) twenty girls were with her" (III, 17); ek dui sāt jōr ne ye-dū "one does not come to agreement with the other" (III, 26).

set "with", in Nariā-si dād te set mukadima kī "the ancestor of Narēr made a quarrel with him" (II, 6). This is not the same word as sāt (< sārtha-). It is the same as the Kāšmīrī sāity (< sahitē).

tin "down" (L. 88), "below," in tisi tin Miā Kāsim Bāba bēdū šū "under it Miyān Kāsim Bābā was seated" (II, 32); thām-si•tin "under a tree" (L. 230). Cf. tes-ma gām tin kī

“the village was made captured (? was made subject) from him” (III, 16).

wa, wā (L. 88) “down”, in Kalāma-wa Mišku-si cālā-bā “down from Kalām to the rock of Mishku” (III, 61).

In addition to the above, see also the list of Pronominal Adverbs in §§ 144 ff.

205. Negative.—The Negative is generally na. Examples are:—mē tanū šū tēs-kē na dūt “I did not give my sister to him” (I, 34, so 35); ā te-sāt šerikat na kō-dū “I do not make sharing with thee” (II, 9); yai-si ciš na pō-šat “he was not drinking (from) the mother’s breast” (II, 18, so 21); sē kalimā na bana-dū “he does not repeat the creed” (II, 46); Xodā na kuwē “may God not make” (II, 48); sē mē lāda šit na ašī “she was not aware of this fight” (III, 19); pan na hī “there was no road” (III, 57).

As a Prohibitive, we have:—to lāt na kuwa “do not ye fight” (III, 28); mē Sulaimānik na mā “do not thou kill this Sulaimānik” (III, 35).

Instead of na, we have ne in: māliyā ne kambai “he does not (?) pay taxes” (II, 6); ek dui sāt jōr ne ye-dū “one does not come to agreement with another” (III, 26). As a Prohibitive, we have tu ne baž “do not thou go” (I, 44, 45).

206. Conjunctions:—

“And,” ō, ū, (yū), in dū šālmī ō ar “two rupees and a half” (L. 232); mī yai ū bāp Kāfir thī “my mother and father are unbelievers” (II, 29); tesi yai yū bāp Kufār ašī “his mother and father were Kāfirs” (II, 17). In the last, the y of yū is a ya-šruti, due to the preceding ai.

The Paštō hum “also”, is used to mean “and” (L. 95).

“But” is the Paštō lēkin (L. 96).

“If” is kala (L. 97). Cf. Paštō kala “when?”

207. Interjections.—The usual Interjection is ē “O”, as in ē! tū kēt-si thū “O! of where art thou?” (I, 6); ē zuwān! tu kē āp “O youth! why art thou come?” (I, 47); ē! mere tilai “O! now let us go” (I, 52).

The word ga is translated as an interjection in Sulaimāni-ga "O Sulaimānik" (III, 40), but the word should probably be divided Sulaimāni-g-a, the final k being softened to g, as explained in § 15.

"Yes" and "no" are ah and na, respectively (L. 98, 99).

"Alas" is the Paštō armān (L. 100).

PART III

The Folktales

After the above account of the language, I give the folktales and the list of sentences as recorded by Sir Aurel Stein. To each of the former I have added a free translation. These tales abound in local names, some of which are explained in footnotes ; but, before giving the text, I here supply a list of them, with their identification as given by Sir Aurel.

LIST OF LOCAL NAMES IN THE FOLKTALES

Asrēt	Nullah and hamlet on right bank of Swāt River a quarter of a mile beyond Shigā Pattī, and about 5 miles above Chōḍgrām and Mankiāl.
Basharai	Name of a cliff on the left bank of the Swāt River, opposite Asrēt.
Bihun	Name of the locality now occupied by Braniāl village, the chief place of Tōrwāl.
Braniāl	Present chief place of Tōrwāl, on right bank of Swāt River at the mouth of Darāl-dara.
Buḍur	Name of a subsection of Tōrwālī tribes.
Chamōr	Name of a subsection of Tōrwālī tribes.
Darāl-dara	Large side valley debouching towards Swāt River at Braniāl.
Gurunai	Valley debouching on the left (eastern) bank of the Swāt River, opposite to the village of Tōrwāl.
Jabēr	A tribe.
Kalām	Name of a large village and of the surrounding open valley plain where the rivers of the Utrōt and Ushu Nullahs meet to form the head of the Swāt River. Kalām is considered distinct from Tōrwāl, and the Miāngul of Swāt's present territory stops about 2 miles short of Kalām village.

Kanbēl or Kambēl	Where Semū lived : a part of Braniāl, and about four chains west of it.
Katūr	(Uncertain locality.)
Khāna	Name of a subsection of Tōrwālī tribes.
Lailōt	Name of a subsection of Tōrwālī tribes.
Masulo-bat	A precipice in Darāl-dara valley, over which old people were thrown.
Mayō	Tract of the Indus Kohistān.
Mīngaora	Market town near left bank of Swāt River close to where the important side valleys of Saidu and Janbil meet.
Mishkū	N. of a rock between Satāl and Shāhgrām, supposed to mark boundary between Tōrwāl and Upper Swāt.
Narēr	A tribe.
Pīr	It is here that Miyā Kāsim lived. Locality uncertain. (For several reasons it is very improbable that Pīrsar can be meant.)
Punkā	A small village on the left bank of the Swāt River, and half a mile from Kadam towards Tōrwāl.
Purangām	Tōrwālī name of " Old Braniāl " village, known also by the Pashtō designation of Zōr-Braniāl. On hill above Braniāl.
Satāl	Small village situated at a distance of $\frac{3}{4}$ of a mile from Kharisha, towards Shāhgrām, on the right bank of the Swāt River.
Shāhgrām	Village on right bank of Swāt River, nearly opposite to Churrai.
Tōrwāl	Name of a group of hamlets counting about 120 homesteads at the mouth of a side valley debouching on the right bank of the Swāt River about 4 miles above Braniāl. The name is applied also to the whole of the Swāt Kohistān from above Churrai to below Kālām.

Tōrwālī Stories

I. STORY OF SHĀH ZUMĀN KHĀN. Told by Muqadar of Braniāl, Tōrwāl. 10th April, 1926.

A Story of Shāh Zumān Khān

Shāh Zumān Khān was once going to Mingaora and, as he approached Ningōlī, there came before him a man carrying in his hand a guitar.<sup>1</sup> This man asked the Khān where he came from, and stated that he had some business with him. The Khān asked what this business might be, and the guitar-player replied that he had a request to make. "What request?" said the Khān, and the man then offered to amuse him for two nights with his playing. The Khān asked him what his trouble was, and he told the following story:—

"I belong to the family of the Khān of such and such a country. My father died when I was but a child and my home fell into ruin. I had ten cousins, one of whom,—my <sup>1</sup> Sir Aurel Stein tells me that, among Pathāns of the Yūsufzai tribe (and probably in other tribes also), life as a guitar-player means either that the person has become deranged through the use of hashish or some other drug, or else has lost his senses through some overwhelming misfortune. In the present instance we shall see that the latter was the case.

paternal cousin,—was a head man of the village. They were well-to-do people, and one day I attended an entertainment given in their guest-house.<sup>1</sup> As I looked on, I expressed wonder at the happy prosperity that had been vouchsafed by God, the Pure. A man who chanced to be there said to me, 'This very happy prosperity was once the lot of your father. Entertainments such as this used to be held in your guest-house.' I was but a lad, and asked him what I had best do now, and he advised me to set my home in good order. So home the lad<sup>2</sup> hastened and told his mother and his sister to go and clean up his (old) family house. His sister went and cleaned the house, putting in it a bedstead arranged with a pillow and coverlet. The lad then entered the house, sat there, and invited guests to eat with him. After this many people of the village began to pay visits to him, but the cousins remained apart (and did not come near him).<sup>3</sup>

"One day the head man said to his brothers, 'Come, let us ask this lad to give me his sister to wife.' I refused to give her. Then reported the head man to his brothers, 'He refused to give me his sister. Come, let us go and offer him congratulations. If he ask why, we can tell him that we are pleased to hear that he has been making overtures for his marriage with the daughter of such and such a Khān,<sup>4</sup> and that for this reason we have come to offer our congratulations.' (They carried out this proposal); but the lad sent them away, and returning to his own house told his

<sup>2</sup> I.e. the narrator, who from now on up to near the end of the story, speaks of himself in the third person, here and there reverting to the first.

<sup>4</sup> The head man first made an ironical sham offer to marry the boy's sister, and, when this was rejected, they offered him ironical congratulations, intimating that if he could secure a wealthy Khān's daughter to be his wife, he might be entitled to assert a claim to his father's position, but not otherwise. The boy sends them away but takes the hint, and, as soon as they are gone, does secure such a wife, and through her secures his position in the village, becoming a Khān himself.

sister that he was off after the daughter of such and such a Khān. The sister advised him not to go, as he would probably be killed if he did so, and offered to go herself in his stead, but the lad (insisted, and) went off himself to the Khān's place of residence.

"The Khān received him as a guest, and asked the purpose of his visit. Thereupon the lad asked the Khān to give him his daughter in marriage. He consented to this, and told the lad to go home and send the present of clothes customary on such occasions. The lad, returning home, dispatched the clothes, and in due course the Khān sent off the bride to her husband's house.

"When the cousin,—the head man,—learnt this, he advised his brothers to abandon their hostile attitude and to visit the lad on a formal (and, this time, real) visit of congratulation.

"(The lad was now a Khān), but his young wife died, and (in grief at this overwhelming misfortune) he went mad and abandoned his Khānship.

"That is the origin of my <sup>1</sup> trouble and the cause for the request that I make to you. I know you to be a good man, and it is for this reason that I address you."

The Story of Tōrwāl's Conversion to Islām

The ancestor of Narēr<sup>1</sup> came to this country from Katār, and settled as a cultivator here, in Tōrwāl. On the opposite side of the river (Swāt) in Punkā there was a Kāfir who had twelve sons and was very powerful. He took taxes from Tōrwāl, but he quarrelled with the ancestor of Narēr, who refused to pay them. The ancestor of Jabēr<sup>2</sup> came hither from Badakhshān, and the ancestor of Narēr proposed to him to divide the country in equal parts between them. The ancestor of Jabēr refused to have the division. Then the ancestor of Narēr offered to take one-fourth of the country and to give him the remaining three-fourths, on condition that they should unite in attacking the Kāfir. They crossed the river by a bridge and joined battle with him, but he repulsed them. The ancestor of Jabēr broke the bridge (to prevent pursuit). They returned and fought (again), but they were driven back by the Kāfir, and returned home.

The ancestor of Jabēr had a son born to him who was a saint. His father and mother were Kāfirs. The boy did not drink his mother's milk, but was suckled by a red goat. At that time Miyā Kāsim Bābā was in the village of Pīr, and heard that a boy had been born in Tōrwāl who did not drink his mother's milk. So he sent one of his disciples who brought the child to him. Miyā Kāsim Bābā recognized that he was destined to become a saint, gave him the name of Ākhūnd Ibrāhīm, and educated him. When he grew up, the boy explained to him that his father and mother were unbelievers, and proposed that they should convert them to Islām. So they set out for (the village of) Tōrwāl. In front of Tōrwāl was a Bū-tree, and Miyā-Kāsim Bābā, taking his seat beneath it, recited the creed to Ākhūnd Ibrāhīm's tribe. The first to come to him was the ancestor of Khāna.<sup>1</sup> He asked Miyā Kāsim Bābā to recite the creed to him. Miyā Kāsim Bābā did so, and he became a Moslem. Miyā Kāsim Bābā then told him to ask a boon, and he asked to be made a Khān.

Next his second brother<sup>2</sup> came, and the creed was recited to him too. When told to ask a boon, he begged to be made a Wazīr. The boon was granted, and he became Wazīr of the country. Then the third brother<sup>3</sup> arrived and he too became a Moslem. When told to ask a boon, he prayed for the boon of a rifle, and the boon was granted. There was besides a fourth brother,<sup>4</sup> but he refused to repeat the creed. Two years passed by and, when the third year came, he also accepted Islām; but a curse was laid upon him that his family should not increase till the seventh generation. After that, the whole tribe turned Moslem. Miyā Kāsim Bābā appointed Ākhūnd Ibrāhīm to be its Imām, and his descendants, the Ākhūndzādas, are the Imāms of the whole tribe to this day.

Sir Aurel Stein adds to this story :—Muqadar [the narrator] declares the above conversion to date back eight generations from his own. He says that before Tōrwāl's conversion it was the custom to carry sick or aged people in a kajāwa [a kind of camel-litter] to a precipice in Darāl-darra, called Masulo-bat, with two kajāwas, one full of meat and the other of bread, and to throw them over the cliff in succession.

The Story of Sulaimānik

Sulaimānik ruled formerly in Purangām.<sup>1</sup> He had an enemy named Semū, a Kāfir of Kanbēl. This man fought with

Sulaimānik, and was driven by him from the country. He became an exile, and took up his abode in Mayō,<sup>1</sup> on the bank of the Indus. Semū asked these people to fight on his side. They called a tribal council, and agreed to go with him as his army. "We have," said they, "in former days fought in that land and been victorious. Now we will (attack and) plunder it." So, in the fifth year, the army arose and came with Semū to Gurunai.<sup>2</sup> Semū sent a man to Sulaimānik, challenging him to make ready for the combat. Sulaimānik told the man that he was ready, and ordered his army to advance to Bihun<sup>3</sup> for the battle. To Bihun his army went, and Semū's army arrived from Gurunai. The two armies halted and joined battle. Sulaimānik's was defeated. He retreated, and his village was captured.

Sulaimānik had a daughter, with whom there were nine times twenty (serving-) girls. She was weaving wool in her house, and knew nothing of the fight till she was made aware of it by the unexpected sound of commotion at her door. A number of big fellows from Mayō had halted there, and they saw this daughter of Sulaimānik. They began to dispute over her. One said, "I will take this girl," and another said, "I will take her," and they could not come to any agreement. One of them was a very intelligent man, and he said to the others, "Don't quarrel, I will go and ask the girl which man she will take." So he entered the house, and, going up to the girl, shot her dead with an arrow. Then he came out and told his companions to look at the girl. They went in and saw that she had been killed.

These people assembled, and took Sulaimānik captive. They made him over to Semū, who told the Mayō people that he intended to kill him. But said they, "Don't kill him. He can work for you as your slave." So Semū bound Sulaimānik and took him away to Kanbēl. There he ordered him to make a road on the other side of the river. Sulaimānik took a pickaxe in his hand and went off. He cut the cliff and made a road. He came back to Semū's house, and Semū asked him if he had made the road. Sulaimānik replied that he had, and Semū was much pleased. He made Sulaimānik sit by the fireplace. Sulaimānik went to sleep, but at midnight he rose from his slumber, and, seeing that Semū was asleep, he took up the pickaxe and smote him such a blow on the head that he died. Sulaimānik then escaped to Purangām, and again began to rule over this country.

After those days, there was a queen in Bihun. Sulaimānik had occasion to go there on a visit, and fell in love with her at first sight. He asked her to take him, and she replied that she would do so if he would excavate a canal (from the Swāt river) to Bihun. He agreed to do this, and she answered, "When you have dug the canal, I will take you." So he dug the canal, and she took him for her husband. He brought her to Purangām. They arrived at the opposite side of the river, and the way was barred by a cliff.<sup>1</sup> She asked Sulaimānik to cut the cliff, and he did so. She was pleased, and came to Purangām to exercise her own rule. In this way Sulaimānik's authority became established from Kalām to the rock of Mishkū.<sup>2</sup>

IV. SENTENCES IN TÖRWĀLĪ

In addition to the above three folk-tales, Sir Aurel Stein also sent to me a translation into Törwālī of the Standard List of Words and Sentences used in the Linguistic Survey of India. The words in this List have been distributed through the Vocabulary appended to this work. The numerals will also be found in §§ 51 ff., and the Personal Pronouns in §§ 58 ff. above. Wherever such a word occurs, its source is indicated in the Vocabulary by the letter L, accompanied by the number in the original, and I therefore do not reproduce that portion of the List.

Numbers 220-41 at the end of the List are, on the other hand, sentences designed to illustrate particular features of Tōrwālī idiom, and are not given elsewhere. They are as follows :—

220. What is your name ? chī nām ka thū ?
221. How old is this horse ? mē ghō-sī umu kadak cī (? chī) ?
222. How far is it from here to Kashmir ? mhēda Kashmīr kadak dū thū ?

241. From a shopkeeper of the village. gām-se dukāndār- (or haṭhūwāl-) kejā gin-thū.

PART IV

Vocabulary and Indexes

TÖRWĀLĪ-ENGLISH VOCABULARY

In the following Vocabulary, besides the words found in Sir Aurel Stein's materials, I have also included all the words in the English-Torwâlâk vocabulary forming Appendix D to Biddulph's Tribes of the Hindoo Koosh. The latter words are indicated by the syllable "Bid."

The letter L refers to a List of Words and Sentences provided by Sir Aurel Stein. As all the words contained in it are included in the vocabulary, I have not considered it necessary to print this List in its entirety, but have contented myself with giving some sentences found at the end of the List that illustrate certain common idioms. These will be found on pp. 132 ff.

Roman numerals refer to the three folk-tales recorded by Sir Aurel Stein, and the Arabic figures following them to the numbers of the sentences in each. The mark § indicates a section of the Grammatical Sketch.

The order of words is based on the alphabetical order of the consonants only, without any regard to the vowels. The latter come into consideration only in cases in which the same consonant is, or the same consonants are, followed or separated by different vowels. Thus, the different words containing the consonants kl will be found in the succession kal, kala, kalā, kāl, kilē, and kol. All words beginning with vowels are arranged together at the head of the Vocabulary, their mutual order being determined by their consonants. The letter ḍ follows d, t follows t, ṣ follows s, and ž follows z. In other respects the alphabetical order of the consonants is that of the English alphabet.

So far as was possible, verbs have been quoted under the infinitive form ending in ōsa or ūsa; but for several I have had no means of finding that form. In such cases I have not trusted to my imagination, and have contented myself with taking the shortest form actually noted by me as the leading word of the article.

In quoting Kāśmīrī words I have several times departed from the spelling given in my Kāśmīrī Dictionary. In the latter the numerous epenthetic vowel-changes are represented by the spelling. This, while convenient to the student of that particular language, often obscures derivation and hides the connection of a Kāśmīrī word with the corresponding words in other Dardic languages. In the present Vocabulary, I have therefore given each Kāśmīrī word as it appears before it is affected by epenthetic change, at the same time indicating that such a change does occur by putting a dot under the affected letter. Thus, the Kāśmīrī word for "ewe" is written gūb<sup>u</sup> in the Dictionary, but is here written gaḇ<sup>u</sup> in order to show that this is the real word, the a being marked with a dot, in order to show that, in the language of the present day, it is epenthetically affected by the following u, and is therefore to be pronounced gūb<sup>u</sup>. Similarly, the word for "brother" is given as bōy<sup>u</sup> in the Dictionary, but is here spelt bāy<sup>u</sup>.

It has been necessary to alter Biddulph's spelling in order to make it agree with that used elsewhere in these pages. I have transliterated his spelling as follows:—

Biddulph's a (as in "have") > ā.

á or aḥ > a.

ā > ā.

ò (as in "knot") > ō.

ō > ā.

ô > ō.

ö = ō.

u (as in "gun") > a.

ù > u.

n > ñ.

g > ḡ.

Biddulph does not distinguish between aspirated and unaspirated, or between cerebral and dental letters, and I have had to follow him in these particulars with regard to words depending on his authority alone. Such words should be adopted with caution. Thus, his kōwūsa, "to eat", should certainly be khōwūsa, and his dē, "the belly", should certainly be dhē.

Attention should also be paid to the remarks on p. 9 above, in which it is explained that the cerebral sounds represented by ç, j, š, and ž are probably heard in Tōrwālī, but were not noted by Sir Aurel Stein. Allowance should therefore also be made for this. Compare, for instance, the articles cā and pūc in this vocabulary.

INDEXES

OF WORDS IN OTHER LANGUAGES QUOTED IN THE FOREGOING VOCABULARY

In the case of Avesta and Sanskrit, the order of words is that usually employed for these languages. For all other languages, the order is that followed in the Vocabulary. That is to say, for each language, words beginning with vowels are placed first, and, after them, the order of the English alphabet is followed, only consonants being taken into consideration.

Each word is followed by the word or words in the Vocabulary under which it is quoted, the two being separated by a colon (:).
